

Brazil Calm After Change In Government

President Gets Broad Dictatorial Power Through Move

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil was reported calm today and most political leaders were silent after President Humberto Castello Branco dealt himself dictatorial powers.

Some 200 students demonstrated briefly in Rio de Janeiro, but no other unrest was reported after Castello Branco issued the sweeping new law Wednesday.

"We need tranquility for the nation's economic development," he told a television audience.

Faces Defeat
With the measure facing defeat, the military government slammed the lid down.

The decree included these provisions:

—The abolition of all existing political parties;

—Presidential power to declare a state of siege for up to 180 days;

—Federal power to intervene in the states;

—Expansion of the Supreme Court from 11 to 16 judges;

—Presidential power to oust federal and local legislators and authority to suspend political rights of any citizen for 10 years.

Direct Election

The act also abolished direct election of the president by the people. Instead he will be chosen by Congress before next Oct. 3, and Castello Branco cannot succeed himself.

Justice Minister Juracy Magalhães repeated a government promise that state governors who were elected earlier this month would be allowed to assume office.

The Brazilian Labor party of leftist ex-President Joao Goulart, who was ousted by a civil-military movement last year, said Castello Branco's decree "mortally assaulted what remains of republican institutions."

Congo Leaders Dispute Future Of Mercenaries

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The Congo's civilian and military leaders today disputed the future of the hired white soldiers who crushed the rebellion in the north Congo.

President Joseph Kasavubu said early this week that "the mercenaries would be sent home." On his return Wednesday night from the African summit conference in Accra, he said only "those people hired in the framework of technical assistance agreements with friendly powers" would be kept.

Most of the mercenaries commanded by Lt. Col. Mike Hoare are from South Africa and Rhodesia, and the Congo has no technical assistance pacts with those governments. According to Kasavubu's statement, these men apparently would be sent home.

Pope Paul, Council Proclaim Five Decrees on Non-Christians, Rule

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI and the bishops of the Vatican Ecumenical Council proclaimed five decrees today. They included promises of a drastic overhaul of the government of the Roman Catholic Church and a new and friendlier approach to Jews and other non-Christians.

By almost unanimous votes the council gave final approval to the decrees, which brought to 10 the total number issued since the council first met in 1962. Six more remain to be enacted.

Martial Law Is Reported in Java

Army Newspaper Says Action Counters Sabotage, Terrorism

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Martial law was today reported proclaimed in central Java to counter widespread sabotage and terrorism.

The army newspaper Berita Yudha said Brig. Gen. Surjo Soempeno, commander of the Diponegoro Division, had decreed a "state of war" (martial law) after widespread subversive activities by "counter-revolutionaries of the Sept. 30" rebel movement.

Riots apparently instigated by the Communists wrecked the city of Surakarta last Saturday, the newspaper said.

200 Murdered
The Communists have murdered 200 people in east and central Java and kidnapped numerous others, it said.

They also seized control of local governments in some areas, raided police posts to get arms, disconnected telephone lines and sabotaged railway and road communications, the newspaper said.

Army commands and units of the Diponegoro Division were reported chasing Communist rebels throughout east and central Java.

The army continued its roundup of Communists in the Jakarta area, and newspapers reported 172 were arrested in the latest sweep.

Links Reds

One newspaper quoted a ranking police officer as saying that security forces discovered documents linking the Communists to the Sept. 30 coup during one of the raids.

The newspaper added that security forces also seized documents revealing espionage activities by the Indonesian Communist party in the state apparatus.

He met with Communist Chinese Ambassador Yao Chung Ming for the second time in 21 hours Wednesday night and declared that Indonesian-Chinese relations will remain strong and close "despite several slanders" intended to wreck them.

Sukarno also indicated he will not drop Subandrio, first deputy premier and foreign minister. Informed sources say there are strong indications the army wants to get rid of Subandrio.

'Skids Greased'

Assembly Is Ready For Last Oleo Fight
MADISON (AP) — The State Assembly appears ready to make a last ditch effort to put a bill that would allow Wisconsin sale of colored oleomargarine on Wisconsin grocery shelves.

"The oleo people have the skids greased with this only stuff," declared Democratic Majority Leader Frank Nikolay of Abbotsford, a butter supporter.

The Assembly granted preliminary approval to two oleo bills and debated a third Wednesday. All of the proposals were referred to the Joint Finance Committee where two were recommended for passage. Lawmakers voted 60-39 for preliminary approval of a bill that would allow Wisconsin sale of colored oleomargarine containing 20 per cent butterfat.

Wisconsin now bans the sale of all colored oleomargarine and taxes the uncolored product 15 cents a pound.

Found Defective

The engrossed bill would abolish the 15-cent tax and put a 10 cents a pound levy on the colored product. Twenty-five Republicans joined 35 Democrats in voting for the bill that was later found defective.

"I was misled and I have misled the body in debate this morning and I apologize," said author George Borg, R-Delavan.

Borg said that under the bill a special product would have to be made for Wisconsin "that appears impossible," he said.

"Only one firm manufactures oleo using butterfat and the content is between 10 and 15 per cent."

In an afternoon session, the Assembly gave preliminary approval to a bill that would take off the 15-cent tax on uncolored oleo. It would cost the state $403,300 in the loss of tax revenues, according to a fiscal note.

Passage Advised

Both engrossed oleo bills were recommended for passage 5-1 by the Joint Finance Committee, which met after the Assembly adjourned.

A third measure that would lift the nation's only ban on oleo, but submit the question to a referendum before it became law did not fare as well.

"A referendum is an atrocious way to handle this problem," said Nikolay. "Farmers have been driven to their economic knees and this would be the final psychological blow."

The Democratic majority leader said the oleo question

Midnight Deadline Seen As Prelude to Agreement On Airlift of Thousands

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro ordered a halt at midnight today to the small-boat exodus of refugees — but hundreds of Cubans set sail for Florida in the face of bad weather.

"They are on their way," a Coast Guard spokesman said. Waves 10 feet high were reported in the Florida Straits which separate Cuba from the United States.

Castro's move was a prelude to a U.S.-Cuban agreement to fly 3,000 to 4,000 refugees a month to the United States.

Gustavo Hidalgo, captain of a 23-foot boat, arrived here today and said: "The Castro officials wanted to send out all boats that wanted to go, regardless of the weather."

Radioed Guard

"We radioed the Coast Guard to take off our women, children and old people; 11 were transferred to a Coast Guard vessel 20 miles from Cuba," he said.

Four refugees and four crewmen stayed on board.

"It took us 28 hours to make the 90-mile return trip," Hidalgo explained. "We made the voyage to Cuba in seven hours in good weather."

Hidalgo lives in Miami, Fla.

The U.S.-Cuban agreement to fly out refugees is expected to be announced Friday in Washington and Havana.

The announcement cutting off the Camarioca exodus came after a meeting between Castro and Emil Stadelhofer, the Swiss ambassador to Havana. The Swiss represent U.S. interests in Cuba.

From Airport
Informed sources said the agreement calls for Cubans with relatives in the United States to be flown from Varadero Airport, 85 miles east of Havana.

American planes — probably two a day carrying fewer than 100 persons each — will fly the refugees to Florida airports, the sources added.

The flights are expected to begin within 10 days after the agreement is announced.

Cuba and the United States reportedly will each issue a list of Cubans who have "immediate relatives" in the United States. Persons whose names appear on both lists will be allowed to leave first. Persons whose names appear on only one list will be subject to negotiations.

The term "immediate relative" was taken to include sons, daughters, parents, spouses, brothers and sisters.

Earlier Statement

The agreement made no mention of an earlier statement by Castro that youths aged 17 to 26 would not be allowed to leave without completing their military service.

Among the refugees arriving Wednesday was 6-year-old Isa de Varona of Havana.

"Fidel is a wonderful person," she said. "He has saved Cuba from imperialism."

"My teacher told me," she explained.

2 Top Navy Officials Ask To Resign

NEW YORK (AP) — The chief and deputy chief of the Navy's Bureau of Ships have submitted their resignations.

The Navy said Wednesday night in Washington that the two rear admirals — William A. Brockett, 51, and Charles A. Curtze, 54 — had requested immediate retirement for personal reasons.

No action has been taken yet on the requests by Brockett, chief of the Bureau of Ships; and Curtze, his assistant. Both men, now assigned to the Pentagon, assumed their present posts in April 1963.

The Bureau of Ships is one of the most powerful divisions of the Navy. It is responsible for shipbuilding and ship maintenance, with an annual budget of $2 billion.

The Navy declined to comment on the reasons for "the concerted action."

The New York Times said that from close associates of the two officers it was learned that the resignations, in effect, constituted a protest against the present management of the Pentagon by the office of Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara.

Hungarian Diplomat Seeks Political Asylum In United States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says Hungarian diplomat Laszlo Szabo has stated his request to defect to the United States in a confrontation with Hungary's charge d'affaires in Washington, Janos Radvanyi.

An American official was present at the meeting, Robert McCloskey, State Department press officer, said Wednesday. McCloskey did not say when the confrontation took place and said Szabo's request for asylum is still under consideration.

Szabo, 42, was a second secretary at the Hungarian Embassy in London.

J. W. Elrick Victim As Truck Overtakes In Kenosha County

Kenosha County authorities said a coroner's report listing cause of death has not been completed. Elrick was alone in the truck at the time of the accident and there were no other vehicles involved. The truck was leased to the Combined Locks Paper Co. where Elrick was employed.

Elrick also owned and operated Jack's Pizza Parlor in Little Chute.

Elrick's death and the death of a rural Waterford man Wednesday brought Wisconsin's 1965 highway death toll to 824, compared with 888 on this date a year ago.

Herbert M. Spletter Jr., 23, died Wednesday night when a car left Tichigan Road north of Waterford in Racine County.

Elrick has lived in Little Chute for 15 years. He was a member of the American Legion Jacob-Coppus Post 258 and is survived by his wife, his mother, two daughters and three sons.

Services will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. John Catholic Church, Little Chute. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. Friends may call at the Verkoren Funeral Home after 2 p.m. Friday.

39 Viet Cong Die Suicide Squads Hit Marine Centers; 21 Aircraft Destroyed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marine patrols Da Nang River and 200 or more went on the hunt for the Viet Cong around Da Nang and Chu Lai today after Communist mortars and suicide squads destroyed 19 helicopters and two bombers in simultaneous attacks on the two Marine centers in central Viet Nam.

Another 21 helicopters were damaged. The Marines reported they killed 39 guerrillas and suffered only light casualties during the two attacks just before midnight.

It was the third sabotage raid on the Marine air and infantry complex on the coast of central Viet Nam.

Marble Mountain

The Communists did the bulk of their damage at Marble Mountain, an air strip two miles across the river from the big Da Nang air base. The attack destroyed or crippled two thirds of the 60 helicopters on the strip.

Seabees there also suffered light casualties from mortar shells. The main Da Nang base was not attacked.

Two AD4 Skyhawk jet bombers were destroyed at Chu Lai, 52 miles south of Da Nang.

Both airfields came under heavy mortar fire before Viet Cong suicide squads slipped in and attacked the aircraft with demolition charges and rifle fire but most of the damage was apparently caused by the mortars.

Maj. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, commander of Marines in Viet Nam, said several of the damaged helicopters would be flying again today. More than half of the wounded Marines were expected to be back on duty by tonight.

37 Killed

The Marines said 37 Viet Cong were killed at or near Marble Mountain and two at Chu Lai.

Gen. Walt reported a wounded guerrilla who was captured said the Marble Mountain suicide Smith.

Wilson Talks To 71 About Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson has talked with 71 opponents and supporters of a unilateral independence declaration by this British colony in his first two days of efforts to avert such a move.

Wilson met Wednesday with former Prime Minister R. S. Garfield Todd, who was restricted 10 days ago to his cattle ranch in South Rhodesia on charges of associating with a banned African nationalist organization. Todd was given special permission to come to the capital.

Details of their talks were not announced, but Todd has said that he is opposed to a unilateral declaration of independence, threatened by the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Love Important Factor In Aiding Mentally Ill

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. what it means to be mentally ill. Dear Dr. Molner: Five years ago I had a complete mental breakdown and sent to a sanatorium. The condition has been building up for years, of course. Later I was told I had schizophrenia.

After I had been there two months the doctor decided to give me electric shock treatments because I wouldn't or couldn't come out of my little dream world. I had three treatments a week for four weeks.

I believe this was the turning point in my illness. I don't mean the shock treatments cured me, because I still had several months of hard work ahead of me, but they put me on the right road.

Oh, they have their drawbacks, the same as everything else.

I wish I had the ability to write so I could tell people some of these same ideas, but I've been trying to present certain stages, and in many cases I am aware of the places I can't blame them. There are. Neither are some medications what it means to be mentally ill. Dear Dr. Molner: Five years ago I had a complete mental breakdown and sent to a sanatorium. The condition has been building up for years, of course. Later I was told I had schizophrenia.

Before I had the breakdown I would go home and get a razor blade and cut my legs. I learned later that I was really trying to hurt the people who I thought were trying to hurt me.

Keep up the good work and try to make your readers understand that although someone is mentally ill, he or she needs love more than ever. It might make the difference between coming back to reality or staying in that nice safe dream world where you can't be hurt and nothing or no one can get to you.—Mrs. L.C.

or operations. The point is that the benefits outweigh the discomforts.

Third, love is superlatively important. Relatives and friends may not fully understand what goes on in the patient's mind. How could they? Mental illness is, indeed, a very lonely experience. But love and helpfulness and consideration can make the difference between staying well, after recovery, or slipping back into the secret dream world which is a retreat from reality.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the causes other than menopause of sudden feeling of intense heat, so I perspire all over my body for brief periods several times a day? And frequently on rising in the morning? Can medication relieve this? I am 43.—Mrs. R. G.

This description has all the classic signs of "hot flashes," which can be alleviated or prevented by medication. Offhand, I think of no other cause that fits this pattern. (Night sweats are another matter, and often are caused by some undiscovered infection.)

Congress Still Won't Use Electronic Voting Machines After a Century

By HARRY KELLY and G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — At least a century ago Thomas A. Edison tried to sell Congress on an electronic voting system. The door was closed firmly in his face.

"It's the last thing we want here," a committee chairman said, "a committee chairman each lasting an average 24 1/2 minutes."

Since then legislatures in 36 states have adopted some form of push-button voting and the United Nations has just put an electronic system in operation.

But both the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives cling to the old system of calling the roll.

And in the House, with its 435 members, it's a long time from Abbot to Zablocki. In the Senate, with 100 members, calling the roll can be as fast as 10 minutes, but it usually takes longer.

How long the House can take was shown Sept. 13, the day the House broke the record for roll calls in a 12-hour, 31-minute session. Congressmen spent nine hours answering 22 roll calls, and that's the last anyone has heard about electronic talk devices.

As for voting machines, the senators like it the way it is. They seem to get a kick out of the ritual performance of stalling for time until brother and sister senators can reach the floor for a vote.

In most state legislatures the lawmakers' offices are their desks on the floor, and they thus usually are on the spot when a vote is taken.

When the bells ring in Congress for a vote or a quorum, members most often have used, but that the vote not be reported finally and tabulated until after a specific length of time.

SHOULD CHILDREN BE PROTECTED FROM LIFE'S SEAMIER SIDE? YES ☐ NO ☐

You can argue this either way. Surely it is well not to alarm and frighten children unduly. Yet, as soon as a youngster is old enough to be away from home part of each day, he should know enough about sick and explosive people to protect himself from them. It is no kindness to so shelter a child that he or she is unprepared for the unpleasant encounters with those who are stamped, self-addressed envelopes capable of physical and mental abuse. Those who play it cool are trying to keep from getting hurt and this is to some extent good. But the richness of life does not come from the avoidance of pain and "trouble." It comes from grabbing hold of life and getting the most out of it. The well-developed person can suffer deeply and enjoy richly. He can grieve and he can rejoice. Firemen, City Agree on 1966 Contract Terms

Wage Boost, Fringe Benefits Added to New Agreement

Appleton's unionized firemen and the city's personnel committee have agreed on a 1966 contract calling for a wage boost and added fringe benefits.

The announcement was made Wednesday night by Max Hensel, personnel committee chairman, capping negotiations which began in July.

During the three-month period the bargainers for Local 257 of the Appleton Firefighters Association and personnel committee arrived at terms on contracts for 1965 and 1966.

Hensel explained the 1965 contract was signed several weeks ago, containing some fringe benefits but no wage increases.

Council Ratification

He and Ken Boman, representing the firemen, will now complete the contract language and sign the agreement, subject to city council ratification.

The council was briefed on negotiations at an executive session earlier in the week and it is expected the council will approve the 1966 contract which calls for:

—A one-step pay increase for all members of the department, the boosts ranging from $20 to $35 per month, depending on rank.

—A 56-hour work week effective Jan. 1, 1967, the shorter hours to result in hiring of nine additional firemen at a cost of about $50,000 to the city.

—An improved life insurance program, final details yet to be worked out.

—Improved vacation policy calling for three weeks after 11 years service in 1966; three weeks after 10 years in 1967, and four weeks after 20 years, starting in 1968.

It was estimated the salary increases will add up to about $29,000 for the coming year.

County Prisoner Found Guilty of 2 More Charges

A 35-year-old route 2. New London man, who last week was found guilty of stealing a license plate, Wednesday afternoon was found guilty of two counts of issuing worthless checks following a hearing in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered Anthony Mutchler Jr. held in the county jail without bond for sentencing on Tuesday.

Mutchler pleaded innocent Aug. 10 to charges of cashing checks totaling $70 at Appleton business places. The checks were drawn on the New London National Bank and were cashed April 23 and 28.

Mutchler also will be sentenced Tuesday for stealing a license plate from a car owned by Clarence Fields, route 1, New London, and then unlawfully displaying that plate on his own car.

Judge Keller found Mutchler guilty of the license plate charges last Friday and continued the case for sentencing. Outagamie County authorities signed the license plate charge against Mutchler, Aug. 6.

Headaches Caused by Sanitary Sewer Project

Emergency Situation on Washington Street Results in Snarling Motorists, Upset Crews

Construction of a new sanitary sewer line on W. Washington Street in Appleton's downtown district is giving the city and motorists problems.

A block of the one-way street was closed earlier in the week between N. Superior and Division Streets.

Earlier a new storm sewer was constructed along the same route. However, the current project is to correct an emergency situation.

Replacing the defective sewer, installed in 1901, has resulted in major problems for crews of the Wieseler Construction Co. because the area being excavated has unusual, and unfavorable, ground conditions.

Municipal Employment Question Referred to Council for Action

Appleton's personnel committee (12th) that effective Jan. 1, 1965, was deadlocked Wednesday newly hired employees must reside in Appleton within a year for municipal employment from the date of their employment, lost on a 2-2 tie vote.

Unable To Attend

Ald. Richard Huisman (1st) was reported ill and unable to attend. He is the fifth committee member.

Over the years, according to Mayor Clarence Mitchell and other officials, it has been taken for granted that municipal employees should reside in the city after a year on the job.

However, Mitchell said the Trade Unions Blamed Difficulty in Receiving Apprenticeships Hit

The near-impossibility for tests and the recommendation of the principal.

This is an age of "depersonalization" and in the college admissions processes, this is doubly true, Detloff said.

Merit Deciding Factor

"Acceptance by the college depends on an admissions committee which is made up of the professionally trained people who accept the student not because of his name or his father's bankroll, but his merits," he continued.

He felt that all parents of college-bound children should sit down with them after the junior year and frankly discuss financing their students.

"The student should know a realistic maximum figure which the parent can afford to spend for college," he said.

Offers Alternative

Looking at those who are not college-bound, Detloff said that a boy should do one of two things: either enlist in the armed services or take technical training on a full-time basis.

"Such as the fine programs offered at the Appleton Vocational School."

Sister M. Sebastian, girls' guidance director; John C. Gosling, freshman adviser, and the Rev. Mark Schumacher, school spiritual director, also participated in the panel presentation.

Sister Sebastian described the guidance services at Xavier and Gosling outlined the orientation program for incoming freshmen and his work as liaison between the school and the grade schools in Appleton.

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A hobo jungle where a weary knight of the road could find a pot to boil coffee while he waited for an incoming freight train, has been buried up by progress west of Appleton's Junction Depot.

The jungle, a small clearing in the brush near the tracks where some enterprising travelers some time ago built a small lean-to and outfitted it with utensils, was a popular stopping place for out-of-work travelers heading north to Green Bay on the "rails."

Often, on cold mornings, hobos would find water in a pail in the jungle, a coffee pot, an iron skillet and a small paper bag of coffee.

The unwritten law of the jungle was to replace, if at all possible, any foodstuffs borrowed from the small wooden box in the lean-to.

Hard to Find

The jungle was hard to find for anyone who did not enter Appleton on the rails. An open field, a woodlot, a small stream and scratchy underbrush protected the quarters from strangers.

Three years ago I warmed myself with hot coffee from the rusted pot in the hobo jungle where I talked with its lone occupant. He had come to Appleton, he said, to find work, but a knowing wink of his eye showed me that he didn't try too hard.

He said he was on his way to Green Bay on the next freight to find work, but I felt assured that he would be equally unsuccessful there, too.

He told me that long ago

E. College Extension Is First Segment

Construction of the first segment of the Tri-County Expressway—extension of E. College Avenue from Appleton to Kaukauna—is being timetabled for the summer of 1966, it was learned today.

The tip-off that local, county and state officials intend to press for expressway construction came from Outagamie County Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson in a letter to the city clerk's office here.

Brownson said resolutions requesting that E. College Avenue extended be put on the secondary highway system and become eligible for federal and state aids were sent to the City of Appleton, Kaukauna, Combined Locks and Town of Buchanan for adoption.

The form resolutions were furnished by Brownson's office by L. P. Empey, Green Bay, district engineer for the State Highway Commission.

Quick Approval Sought

Governing bodies of the four communities and the Outagamie County Board are being asked to approve the resolutions as soon as possible for submission to federal authorities.

The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads will be the federal agency acting on the request for expressway funds for this region. Under the present formula, secondary roads receive 50 per cent aid from the federal government and 25 per cent from the state.

This would mean the local units of government involved in committee members go to Milwaukee and get firsthand information on the program, per cent of the cost.

The first segment of the expressway from Appleton to a point connecting with State 55 south of Kaukauna will cover about five miles, an estimated half mile being in the City of Appleton.

$250,000 For Land Purchase

Although no right-of-way has been purchased by the county highway commission as yet, an estimated $250,000 is available for that purpose. Land acquisition will have to take place soon if officials hope to start the project next year.

The resolution to be adopted and sent to the Bureau of Public Roads says the extension of College Avenue is a necessary part of the regional expressway system, the latter having been placed on the official maps of communities covering a three-county area.

It's noted, too, the expressway plan has been approved by the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission and that College Avenue extended will develop into "a heavily traveled thoroughfare."

4-Lane Road

The E. College Avenue expressway will be a divided four-lane with overall width of the right-of-way designated at 210 feet.

First leg of the expressway would begin at the intersection of Walter and E. John Streets, extending east into the Town of Buchanan and then to the western limits of Kaukauna.

It would continue eastward in Kaukauna to that city's southeast limits eventually connecting with State Highway 55.

No estimate has been given of the total cost of the right-of-way purchases and actual construction.

Dean at MU To Give Lecture More Study for Policemen Cadets

Program Suggested by Chief To Develop Careers in Law

A review of some of the major causes of the rift between religion and science will be presented in the third lecture in a series sponsored by Marquette University alumni at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Xavier High School Commons.

A proposed Appleton police cadet program was discussed, and whether it will work in Appleton, it was said.

More Study

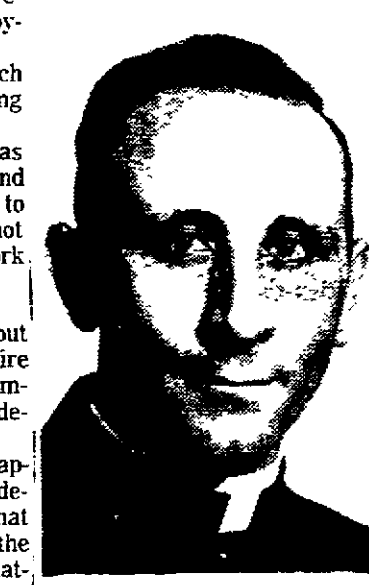

He suggested Chief Wolff and committee members go to Milwaukee and get firsthand information on the program, per cent of the cost.

City officials, including those from the police department attending the meeting, felt there were too many unanswered questions at this point to do any serious deliberating.

"Someone must want to sell this program and when they are ready we will be willing to consider it," Ald. Robert Ebben (19th) said.

"And before we can sell it, we have to know more about it ourselves," Inspector Salzman added.

The matter was referred back to Chief Wolff with the understanding another joint meeting, including the public safety committee, would be held when additional information was available.

Rev. L. W. Friedrich

The speaker will be the Rev. Lawrence W. Friedrich, S. J., dean of the university graduate school.

Discussing the lecture, Rev. Friedrich said, "An analysis will be made of the seriousness of the rift and what we can expect to happen in the future." There will be some discussion of miracles, the Galileo case and evolution, these being of special importance in the science-religion controversy.

AEC Research

Rev. Friedrich has been a member of the Marquette faculty since he completed the doctoral work in physics in 1953. Formerly a member of the board of directors of the Jesuit Research Council of America and still Marquette's institution, he also represents Marquette in the council of the Associated Midwest Universities.

Rev. Friedrich is known for his research on the basic nature of magnetism, carried on under an Atomic Energy Commission contract.

Tickets for the lecture may be purchased from Marquette alumni and will be available at the lecture.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff, who recently suggested hiring and training 18 to 21-year-olds as cadets, was out of the city and could not attend the joint session.

However, Inspector Harry Salzman did attend and answered questions of aldermen.

Basically, police cadets would do clerical work at the police station in addition to being exposed to enforcement practices.

The cadet program would get more young men interested in law enforcement careers. Fire and police commissioners claim there is a lack of interest now.

Milwaukee Program

The Milwaukee Police Department has had a cadet program for years and Green Bay reportedly is about to start one.

"The way things have been going on the international scene, the army may get these young fellows before we do," Salzman told officials.

He said Chief Wolff proposed to hire cadets at a starting pay of about $300 a month and opined that by the time they are 21 years old they would know quite a bit about the job of being a policeman.

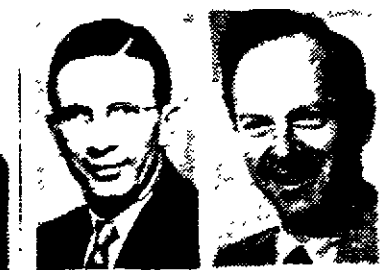

"One of the main advantages of having cadets is to relieve police officers now inside for regular duty," Salzman explained.

Ald. John Ayers (12th) felt the police cadet program was something the council's public safety committee should study and then make a recommendation right hand.

"I think it could take at least six months to find out what this

Sixth District Told of Need for Precinct Politics

OSHKOSH — Tennessee's Third District Congressman William E. Brock called for "precinct politics" to promote the ideals of the Republican Party at the first annual Sixth District GOP award dinner in the Pusteer Hotel Wednesday evening.

The self-proclaimed "unapologetic conservative" defined conservatism as a "total belief in people and the individual" and urged Republicans to quit worrying about national problems and work on local problems.

"We must build strong communities or we'll never have a government in Washington run by the people," he said. "Every American is a politician because we have the right of self-government." "And the meat of politics lies next door where your friends are," he said.

Complex Society

The "essence of Republicanism and democracy" is giving dignity to man as a human being, respecting the individual, he said.

Brock stated the central problem of today is a society "so complex that the individual tends to lose his identity." "A person can't feel individualistic in an automated society," he added.

He called for Republicans to exercise their responsibility and to "practice belief in the individual man."

The young GOP congressman noted "we can't have a political system without a free economic system. There are no human rights without property rights. They are intertwined and inseparable," he said.

Presents Awards

State GOP chairman Ody J. Fisher presented district awards to Allie Kultgen, Port Washington; Lucius P. Chase, Sheboygan; Harold Huijbregtse, Sheboygan; and Mrs. Peter Kohler, Kohler.

Sixth District Republican Chairman Bernard C. Ziegler awarded 14 county Republicans for service to the party through the years. The recipients included William Gresenz and Lorraine Jarrett, Winnebago County; Merlin G. Zahn and Delores Kelly, Calumet County; Clayton Van Pelt and Jean Schwilke, Fond du Lac County; Victor Yahr and Margaret Friday, Green Lake County; Allie N. Kultgen and Vee Clasmann, Oshkosh County; Lucius P. Chase and Bertha Voigt, Sheboygan County; and Mike Kratzer and Doyle Claus, Washington County.

GOP Clubs Will Vote On Merger

NEENAH — Twin City Republicans will decide next week whether to merge two local par- ties into a Neenah-Menasha Republican Club for the cities and towns of Neenah and Menasha.

Voting on a proposed constitution for the area organization will be held by the Neenah Republican Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the community room of the First National Bank of Neenah.

Members voted to seek quotations on three voting machines which will be needed in future elections due to recent ward boundary changes which increased the number of voters in several wards which had less than three machines.

Action by the committee must be approved at Tuesday's council session before becoming official.

Authorities Seek 2 Cars Reported Stolen in County

Outagamie County authorities are investigating the theft of two cars Wednesday night and early today. One of the cars may have been involved in a three-car accident.

Mills R. Neubert, route 1, Portonville, reported his car stolen about 12:20 a.m. from Brishaber's Bar, 1929 E. John St.

Authorities said the car is a maroon and white 1963 Ford with door hardtop, license number T12-757.

A car of the same description was hit and damaged in a three-car accident in Kaukauna. The hit-and-run car would have damage to the right rear, authorities said.

The other stolen car report came to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department from the County Air Club, 2311 W. Spencer St., at 11:53 p.m. My vandalism will be required to pay for damages. He also urged motorists to drive carefully and particularly alert for small cars in the parking lot at the bar, or youngsters who may be trucking in darker neighborhoods.

Kaukauna Unit Asks Removal Of Health Head

State Rules Post Incompatible With School Board Job

KAUKAUNA — The legislative committee of the city council voted to recommend to the council that the term of the city health officer be terminated Dec. 31, 1955.

Action was taken after a ruling was received from the state attorney general, League of Municipalities and city attorney indicating the offices of health officer and school board member are incompatible. Dr. George Behnke is president of the board of education and has been serving as health officer prior to being elected to the school board.

Legislative committee members felt a letter of appreciation and commendation should be sent to Dr. Behnke for the work he has done in his 10 years as health officer. Action was taken after the council received numerous complaints from a private citizen concerning the incompatibility of offices.

Dr. Behnke Comments

Dr. Behnke indicated, in light of this action, the city may find it difficult to get another doctor to serve as city health officer and he "didn't feel it was fair to have the entire city suffer from lack of professional guidance due to personal grievance."

The same party objected to a lieutenant in the police force and a member of the police fire commission serving on the school board, but since the League of Municipalities ruled these positions were compatible, no action.

Members voted to seek quotations on three voting machines which will be needed in future elections due to recent ward boundary changes which increased the number of voters in several wards which had less than three machines.

Action by the committee must be approved at Tuesday's council session before becoming official.

Police Request Students' Aid in Quiet Halloween

KAUKAUNA — Police Chief Harold Engerson asked cooperation of young people again this year in making Halloween in the city a prank-free evening as has been noted the past few years.

Young people in recent years, realizing and respecting other people's property and rights, have cooperated very well with the police, noted Engerson as he expressed hope the practice would continue this year. The recreation department is providing fun and entertainment for children in an effort to help curb vandalism.

Engerson warned against soaping windows or other acts of vandalism indicating police would patrol the city carefully. Anyone caught committing vandalism will be required to pay for damages. He also urged motorists to drive carefully and particularly alert for small cars in the parking lot at the bar, or youngsters who may be trucking in darker neighborhoods.

Budget Criticized For Lack of Detail In Winnebago

OSHKOSH — Evening public hearings on the county budget and a truer budget picture were urged by representatives of the Neenah-Menasha and Oshkosh taxpayers' Association when they appeared at Wednesday afternoon's public hearing on the proposed Winnebago County Budget.

Speaking to the board were Martin Kuether of the Neenah-Menasha group and Carl Schroeder, Oshkosh. Kuether discussed the proposed expenditures and Schroeder the revenues.

Kuether complained of budget figures for airport expenses and called for a complete port expense study and a full statement as to what is contemplated for the port.

Kuether outlined six points he said were basic in government budget preparation. These were the use of the valuation growth factors, a tax base, departmental charts of duties and responsibilities revised periodically, a long-range debt funding program, more complete budget estimates, long-range plans for department expansion and land acquisition and public hearings after working hours which would be more convenient for the public.

Labor Temple Approved for Twin Cities

NEENAH — The public works committee approved the plan commission's recommendation for annexation of a plot of land for construction of a labor temple for the Neenah-Menasha Labor Council Wednesday night.

The committee found the proposed annexation to have no engineering problems for installation of utility services and approved the recommendation to be presented to the council by the plan commission.

The proposed annexation site on Green Bay Road is 760 by 575 feet and contiguous to city property.

Means of bringing sewer and water to the area were discussed. Estimated cost of servicing the temple was set at $3,600. The city will pay, for crossing Green Bay Road, an estimated $1,200. The details for financing the remainder of the project will be worked out later, according to committee members.

Assembly OKs Bill Permitting State Loans

Proposed Measure Must be Passed by 1967 Legislature

MADISON (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment that would permit direct borrowing of $1.1 billion by the state for capital improvements was adopted by the Wisconsin Assembly today.

Lawmakers devoted two minutes to the proposal before it passed, 91-3 and was messaged to the Senate. There was no debate or discussion.

Under the proposal that would have to be approved by the 1967 Legislature and a referendum vote, Wisconsin's current debt limit of $100,000 would be abolished. The state could issue full faith and credit bonds totaling five per cent of the value of taxable property in Wisconsin.

Vote Against

Voting against the resolution were three Republicans, Kenneth Merkel of Waukesha, Kyle Kenyon of Monroe and Willis Hutnik of Ladysmith.

Assemblyman Harold Froehlich, Appleton Republican and one of the resolution's four authors, said he was surprised by the quick action on the proposal.

Killed by the Assembly was a bill that would have permitted municipalities to grant salary increases to elected officials during their terms in office. The vote was 48-45.

The Assembly passed a second bill that would call for mandatory testing of infants for phenylketonuria PKU and other forms of mental retardation.

For the last eight years, Roberts has been metals trade instructor at West Bend Vocational and Adult School, also doing part-time coordination work the last three years.

New Duties

As supervisor, Roberts' responsibilities will entail the initiation, supervision and follow-up of programs at the high school level in the area of vocational education, but specifically those in industrial education. Under a new law, federal matching funds will be available to pilot schools and special type classes in other schools for structuring of the industrial arts course with a job objective for the student enrolled in them. The program is aimed at curtailing the student dropout rate. Money will be allocated for equipment purposes. Roberts will supervise these programs throughout the state and will be responsible to Robert Ristau, coordinator of vocational education.

Passage came on a voice vote without debate. The State Board of Health would determine the tests to be performed and name the laboratories that would make diagnoses.

Fear for Future
Legislators Request Flood Control Study

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Flood problems in many districts of Wisconsin will become more severe if some of the dams on the rivers are allowed to be abandoned, according to three legislative representatives of principal river areas who have asked for a formal legislative study of the subject.

Assemblymen Donald L. Iverson of St. Croix County, Louis Co. Romell of Adams County and Franklin M. Jahnke of Green Lake and Waushara counties have offered a legislative resolution that would direct such a study by the Legislative Council during the next two years.

Recent flooding experiences in some Wisconsin areas were the most severe in the history of the state, they said, and they would have been even more damaging except for the dams and tributary streams.

James DeGoe, vice president, Gary Kalsdonk, secretary-treasurer, and Peggy Wulterkins, each have two representatives on the council, but all officers are freshmen.

Seventh grade representatives are Charles Janssen, Debbie Chalupa, Donna Stoll, Steve DeGoe, Mary DeWild, Chris Ruys, Pam Jansen, Mark Dietzler, Elizabeth Gaffney, Susan Hoffman, Patricia Hoppe, Tim Vandehey, Karen Kemps, Patricia Winius, Barbara Schmidt and Christy Jansen.

Junior High At Kimberly Elects Officers

KIMBERLY — Following election of student council representatives from various classes at John R. Gerrits Junior High School, officers of the student council were selected.

James DeGoe will serve as president, Gary Kalsdonk, vice president and Peggy Wulterkins, secretary-treasurer. Each home room has two representatives on the council, but all officers are freshmen.

Turn To Steam
Many of those dams are owned and operated by utility companies, and many of them may be abandoned during the next few years as those companies increasingly turn to steam generation of power, the legislators explained. The resolution pointed specifically at the Northern States Power Co. which is planning to dispose of some of its structures because they are no longer needed for its purposes.

Other dams may be weakened or may be abandoned, which will mean that the flood hazards will be greater in the future, the resolution continued. The authors said the legislature should consider the feasibility of some form of assistance to local governments to permit them to take over such dams or to build other structures for assurance of flood control.

Rickover Derides Current Attitude To Technology

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover says the public must be protected by unharmed technological changes.

In a paper prepared for the British Association for the Advancement of Science in London, Rickover derided the "tendency in contemporary thinking to regard technology as an irresistible force rather than a tool."

John Koopman, assistant professor of music, has written an article "The Sacred Song Repertoire and Its Problems" for the October issue of The Bulletin, the professional journal of the National Association of Teachers of Singing. In October, also, the Augsburg Publishing House brought out Koopman's booklet, "Selected Sacred Solos in Modern Idiom."

Koopman will be appearing as a soloist in a "pops" concert with the Kohler Community Band in November, and as the bass soloist in the WSU-Oshkosh performance of The Messiah in December.

MIGHTY
(New Turbo-Jet V8)
SMOOTH
(Even softer Jet-smooth ride)

NOW! '66 CHEVROLET JET-SMOOTHER IMPALA

If you go by first impressions, you could get the idea this clean-honed new '66 is more car than you ever got in an Impala before. And you'd be absolutely right.

Take Chevrolet's newest V8's, for instance. They're based on the famed Turbo-Jet design with aircraft-type valves, freer breathing valve openings and other advances that deliver even more efficient power.

Result: You can now order a 396-cubic-inch version with 325 hp. Or you can go for a 427-cubic-inch Turbo-Jet with up to 425 hp.

There's even a new, smoother version of the standard six with silken performance at all speeds.

The ride, too, has reached a new Jet-smooth level of comfort. Chevrolet engineers went over the whole frame and body structure, refining here, honing there. They installed softer acting shock absorbers and even gave each body style its own specially tailored Full Coil springs.

And there's more in the way of those little extras — that come as standard equipment. Like backup lights, padded sun visors and instrument panel, outside rear-view mirror and windshield washer. More in the way of custom features you can order, too, including front-seat headrests and AM-FM stereo.

How come so many improvements have been made in a car that was already America's solid favorite? That, as you'll see when you check this one out at your Chevrolet dealer's, is what keeps it the favorite. Improvements.

Reaction to Emergency Part of Wonder of Body

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Driving your car, you almost have a terrible accident. And almost instantly, your heart speeds up.

Your heart of course couldn't "see" the threat. Neither could the glands inside you that spurted out adrenalin to make your heart start thumping.

Then how does such an astonishingly quick reaction come about?

The answer is fantastic. For at least eight separate events take place, in chain sequence, in perhaps three seconds or less.

Medical Research

The story is another example of the remarkable workings of the human body, plus new insights as to how vital hormones such as adrenalin, really do their jobs. It's also an example of basic medical research digging ever deeper toward knowledge that might lead to new means of safeguarding human health.

As for those eight steps:

1. Your eyes spot danger and register images in your brain, so you slam on brakes, steer away, or just luckily escape collision.
2. Your brain flashes nerve signals to your adrenal glands, as well as to your heart and various other organs.
3. The nerve impulses stimulate the adrenals to release some adrenalin—about 1,000 times as much as when you're just resting—and stimulate nerve endings in the heart to release some nonadrenalin. Adrenalin and nonadrenalin are the hormones that mobilize energy to fight or run away.
4. The hormones reach the muscle cells of your heart.
5. But they don't act within these cells, and this is one new finding. Instead, they activate an enzyme, or chemical governor, which appears to be located in the cell membrane or wall.
6. This activated enzyme then brings about the release inside the cell of a special chemical, nicknamed cyclic amp.
7. Cyclic amp then activates one or more enzymes inside heart muscle cells.
8. And this enzyme—or enzymes—actually does the job of making your heart speed up and work harder—all because of what your eyes saw an instant ago.

Hormones are chemical messengers playing powerful roles in maintaining health and normal body functions. Different hormones are produced by the adrenals, the sex glands, the pituitary, and other glands. Each hormone affects only one or a few body organs or tissues.

Now, from research at Vanderbilt University, it appears that hormones carry their "messages" only part way. Upon reaching their target organs, they turn over the job of delivering the message to a kind of errand boy inside cells of the organ. And this errand boy is cyclic amp.

This chemical can nudge or do the job of at least some hormones, the researchers find.

These new studies of hormone action were described to the American Chemical Society recently by a team of Vanderbilt researchers, including Dr. Earl W. Sutherland, who first discovered amp, and Drs. R. W. Butcher and G. Alan Robison.

Cyclic amp seems to mediate or control the action of a variety of hormones, they said.

This, they believe, is what happens.

A hormone, when it reaches its target organ, first activates a complex enzyme system, known as adeny cyclase. This interaction increases the amount of cyclic amp inside the cells. The amp then "tells" special enzymes within the cells to get busy and follow the instructions of the hormone.

Circulating in Blood

At any one time, numerous hormones may be circulating in the blood, reaching all organs. Then why don't all organs and cells react to every hormone, willy-nilly?

The answer, the researchers think, is that the adeny cyclase molecule has a slightly different shape in the heart, the liver, the uterus, or other organs, so that it will respond only to the hormone it is supposed to accept.

Ordinarily, cyclic amp constitutes only about four parts per 10 million parts of the contents of a living cell, Dr. Butcher estimates. But when a hormone arrives and starts to work, the amount may double or increase up to 100-fold.

Cyclic amp can be made synthetically. Applied artificially to certain glands or cells, it can produce results similar to those produced by the hormone that acts on those cells.

This doesn't mean a synthetic certain glands or cells, it can produce results similar to those produced by the hormone that acts on those cells.

Sir Winston's Home Will be Auctioned Off

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's famous London home, 28 Hyde Park Gate, will be sold at auction here Thursday and the buyer could be an American, said an official of the auctions — Knight, Frank & Rutley.

The house — really two houses, because it includes No 27 Hyde Park Gate next door — is expected to bring between $224,000 to $228,000.

The auctioneers have imposed no condition of sale concerning the use of the house or who buys it, but a move is under way to have it declared a historic building. It then could not be moved or substantially altered without official approval.

Sir Winston died in a ground-floor room in the house on Jan. 24.

Sir Winston moved into the house during World War II and bought No 27 for his staff.

Much Has Changed Since Nikita Ousted

But Much Remains The Same

MOSCOW (AP) — It has been a year since Nikita Khrushchev was expelled from the Kremlin. Much has changed — perhaps more than is known for the secrecy that exists under him has been increased.

Much remains the same. The place he lived last Oct. 14 is occupied by an almost impersonal, impersonal party collective with the rest of the Kremlin. Moscow is still both the Soviet and the world's capital. As one Soviet official phrased it, "collective leadership" is a private talk. Perhaps it is just as well that we have a period of quiet for a change.

Khrushchev used to talk sometimes to the press, and more often to resident diplomats. The new ones rarely do.

Khrushchev put his personal touch on everything that happened in the Soviet Union. To paraphrase one of his own expressions, before a leader as colorful comes to the fore again, shrimps may learn to whistle.

Collective leadership, with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, and President Anastas I. Mikoyan at the top, runs the country. One Western writer phrased it, "Collective leadership is based on the collective fear of the possibility of a return to a one-man dictatorship."

The fear has not altogether disappeared. Bright new officials, nearly 15 years younger than the present leaders, have moved into prominence.

Alexander Shelepin, head of a powerful state-party committee, member of the party presidium, has had important party and police experience. Dmitry Polyansky and Kirill Mazurov have moved up under Kosygin as first deputy premiers.

All are 47, and all are available for top jobs, and are ambitious.

The recent central committee session damped the talk of any hurried one-man takeover. Brezhnev and Kosygin dominated the show — collectively.

Moreover, the central committee, under their direction, appointed them as the main narrators of party policy at the 23rd party congress next March.

Most of Khrushchev's projects were accompanied by great fanfare.

Many flopped, and the new leaders are scrapping those that survive.

List a few:

1. The get-wheat-quick virgin land scheme was an early success, but a long range bust, now is partly plowed under.

2. The corn program — Millions of acres were planted into corn instead of wheat in areas where it did not have a chance to mature. As a result corn is now almost a dirty word in the Soviet Union. Wheat must be bought in Canada.

3. "Get out of Berlin," a warning to the West that brought new American troops and more rockets into West Germany, now is on ice.

4. An ineffective decentralization of industrial controls, with creation of a flock of regional economic committees, was wiped out in the reform program just ordered into effect.

5. The Cuba rocket scheme, which Khrushchev retreated with his knees knocking. In those early hours of October and November 1962 Soviet rockets and spy-circles around American nuclear bombers at the time, and lights in Moscow apartment houses were on all night as frightened citizens kept their radios turned in on foreign stations.

That act was probably the one that ultimately put the skids under him.

The new leaders more cautious seem unlikely to under- take anything like that.

Khrushchev himself has simply dropped out of sight. He was apparently very sick, recently. One report leaked out that he had been hospitalized with grippe.

When Lord Thomson, the Canadian — British press baron, visited Moscow last month, he party heard that Khrushchev had spent three months in a hospital with a gastric ailment.

Most of the time he lives in a dacha outside Moscow, but he has a city apartment. He showed up months ago with his wife, Nina, at an art show and once voted at elections.

Government and party leaders saw few pleasant words about him. Mostly his work is denounced by the same party officials who once praised his leadership.

The good things to be said about him would include his de-Stalinization of the Communist movement. He carried that too far, an important informant said, and now it is slowly being reversed. Those who remember only the millions of deaths attributed to Stalin will be reminded that he made a big industrial power out of the Soviet Union.

Later the history of Khrushchev started two important policies at the 1956 congress which the present government follows.

He opened the way for changes of government that did not call for killing off all the opposition. Those who were banned by him in 1957 — Molotov, Bulganin and others — were left alive. So was Khrushchev in 1964.

He popularized in the Soviet Union the policy of peaceful coexistence with the West, still a major doctrine of the present collective even though relations with America have gone downhill due to the Viet Nam affair.

Unlike Khrushchev, who sought to have the Chinese publicly expelled from communism for their attacks on him and the Soviet Union, the present leadership is trying to quiet the economic slippage from which the Soviet Union suffered.

It Was Just 25 Years ago that the 32nd Division was activated for duty in World War II. The call was memorialized at the National Guard Armory on E. College Avenue Monday night. Change From Daylight Time Likely to Create Hazards

BY E. H. JORRIS, M. D.
State Health Officer

Dusk will come abruptly this year. The extension of daylight saving time until the last Sunday in October has given us many pleasurable extra hours of recreation time. After next Sunday it'll take us a few days to get adjusted to the earlier arrival of darkness—for some even before we finish our day's work.

One of the adjustments we take for granted far too often is the change we must make in our driving habits. The overnight switch from driving in full daylight to dusk or darkness will call for extra physical and mental alertness. To the visibility problem add the possibility of wet pavements, slippery leaves, and—at times—ice or frost. The privilege of driving a car on public highways calls for the driver's complete and undivided attention—especially when road conditions are difficult.

Relax First

Next Monday when you come away from your work and get into your car for the drive home, take a couple of minutes to relax. Let your eyes and per mind get accustomed to conditions. Then drive on home with the confidence that you are really ready for the trip project is $536,840, with the federal traffic toll being rung up every day is frightening. Even 900 more appalling is the realization that the figures we read are deaths only and that there are many more who are injured, disfigured and sometimes permanently crippled in these traffic accidents. There is no alternative, we must do everything we can to promote traffic safety.

Our change from daylight to standard time next Sunday can create a potential traffic hazard. Let's anticipate this and make the transition a safe and happy one for all.

Knowles Gives Okay To Preliminary Plan For Milwaukee Corps

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles gave preliminary approval Tuesday to the ways calls for the driver's complete and undivided attention—especially when road conditions are difficult.

About 900 persons, 675 men and 225 women between 16 and 21, will work in community projects on a full-time basis. The enrollees, who are not in school, will work about 32 hours a week and will take eight hours of non-paid vocational and guidance counseling.

Estimated cost of the total project is $536,840, with the federal government paying $762,000.

Vocalist, Trio, Quartet in Friday Recital

Lawrence Student Program at 4 p.m. In Harper Hall

Dale Duesing, a junior at the Conservatory of Music, Lawrence University, will present a public voice recital at 2:30 p.m. Friday, in Harper Hall, Lawrence Music-Drama Center. He will be assisted by two student brass ensembles.

Duesing, from Milwaukee, is a student of Mari Taniguchi, associate professor of music. He is a baritone and last spring won the student men's competition in that voice category in the National Federation of Music Clubs annual contest.

His program consists of Cantata No. 82, Ich habe genug, by J. S. Bach; Phidyle, by Duparc; Don Quichotte A Dulcinee, by Ravel; operatic selections from Tannhauser, by Wagner, and Andrea Chenier, by Giordano.

The Bach cantata, one of two the composer wrote for solo voice dates from 1732. It was written for the Feast of the Purification and was scored for strings, oboe and continuo. Miss Taniguchi will play a piano accompaniment on this occasion.

Phidyle, a love poem, is one of only 13 songs written by Duparc, who bridged the 19th and 20th centuries. The Ravel song cycle is based on the Don Quixote story, and is characterized by strong Spanish rhythmic motifs.

Singing Superior

Beautiful Music of 'La Boheme' Comes Alive in Screen Version

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The beautiful music of Puccini's immortal opera, "La Boheme," came alive on the screen of the Appleton Theatre Wednesday evening in the Warner Brothers film version of the La Scala Opera Company's production.

Three area students are among them: Stephen Drews, Oshkosh, a junior; David Ridgeley, 1720 W. Packard St., Appleton, a senior; and Douglas Gruen, 1515 W. Brewster St., Appleton, a sophomore.

Others are Christopher Cone, St. Paul, Minn.; Edward Hoffmann, Park Ridge, Ill., both seniors; and Keith Osterman, Deerfield, Ill., and Mark Gerard West, Allis, both freshmen.

The trombone ensemble will play Three Equalities, by Beethoven. The trumpeters will perform Sonatina, by Donato.

The singing of the cast members was superior, the high fidelity sound track outstanding and the color attractive, but some technical aspects of the movie could have been approached more effectively.

In particular, the camera work was often zeroed in much too close on the performers, who were sometimes noticed sneaking peeks at the camera. This would have been more effective if the cameras were set farther back to give the impression of a stage production, which it was. It was filmed at the La Scala Opera House, Milan, Italy.

Minor technicalities aside, the Warner Brothers film was well done. Sung in Italian, the opera is set in the Latin Quarter of Paris about 1830.

The plot, such as it is, is based on the novel, "Scenes de la vie de Boheme," by Henri Murger. The libretto is written by Giuseppe Giacosa and Luigi Illica and the music, of course, is Puccini's.

The story of the opera revolves around the love relationships of Rodolfo, a poet, and Mimì, a seamstress, as well as those of Marcello, a painter, and Musetta, a girl of the Latin Quarter.

Rodolfo and Mimì have their troubles caused by Rodolfo's unwarranted jealousy and Marcello throughout the world, including to and Musetta have their share of quarrels, all leading to the tragic ending.

A ripple of recognition passed through the audience as the familiar "Musetta's Dance" began in Act Two. In all, the opera has 11 major arias, including Mimì's dramatic farewell in Act Three and the touching death scene in Act Four.

The beautiful soprano voices of Mirella, as Mimì, and Adriana Martino, as Musetta, blended well with Gianni Ramondini's superb tenor voice as Rodolfo and Rolando Panerai's powerful baritone in the role of Marcello.

Other major roles were Schanard, a musician, played by Gianni Maffei, and Colline, a philosopher, portrayed by Ivo Vinco.

The film was shown three times Wednesday and twice this afternoon and will conclude with an 8:15 performance tonight.

Underground Nuclear Explosion Expected Today in Aleutians

ANCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (AP) — Scientists, thwarted once by the weather, hoped today to set off an 80-kiloton underground thermonuclear explosion on this bleak Aleutian island.

The $10-million test blast was to have been touched off Wednesday but bad weather forced cancellation of the shot. It was rescheduled for 4 p.m. EST today.

The test is designed to test the nation's ability to identify and locate seismic disturbances caused by underground nuclear detonations.

Seismological stations throughout the world, including those in the Soviet Union, will cooperate in monitoring the test, known as Project Long Shot.

Will he know enough to stay free?

To stay free a country requires informed citizens. In today's world newspapers are the great information multipliers. They are the foundation of responsible citizenship on which every free nation depends.

LUIS is ten years old, bright but only half-literate. Luis lives in a developing country. It is a country emerging from poverty, ignorance, political instability and disorder, struggling to enter the 20th century world of high living standards, modern technology and free democratic institutions.

In a few years Luis will be an adult. Upon him the future of his country will rest. Luis will depend, as men do in all free countries, on a newspaper to teach him, keep him informed. Luis' country needs newspapers. Newspapers can stir Luis, awaken him to the needs and opportunities which face him and his country. Only to the extent that Luis can emerge from his semi-literacy can he participate in the building of a free and modern nation. One hundred and fifty years ago, when America was an "emerging nation," Thomas Jefferson put it this way: "If a nation expects to be ignorant and free, in a state of civilization, it expects what never was and never will be."

In this struggle to enter "a state of civilization," repeated today in nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America, American citizens have a stake. For ignorance anywhere, as we see every day, threatens freedom everywhere. This year the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation, an organization founded to encourage freedom of speech and press around the world, has inaugurated the World Press Achievement Award. Its purpose: to recognize and honor those newspapers in the developing nations of the world which are contributing to the building of informed citizens. These newspapers need encouragement.

Often they operate with obsolete printing equipment. Their personnel are ill-trained. They must frequently combat government hostility. Their readers, often wretchedly poor, lack the education to read or understand. Frequently, it is a struggle for these newspapers to exist at all. Yet the newspaper is indispensable in these countries, as it is in free nations everywhere, because nothing substitutes for the newspaper's capacity to educate, to arouse, to challenge, to inform. A newspaper sets forth the face of its age. It interprets the manifold possibilities which lie before Luis, his nation, or any nation. A free and independent newspaper offers people the freedom to think and to know and thus the capacity to do. The world to stay free needs such newspapers.

The 1965 World Press Achievement Award was given last month to the Yeni Adana of Adana, Turkey.

The Yeni Adana had its birth as an instrument of resistance against French occupation forces in the Adana area. Since its founding in 1918, it has survived periods of revolutionary political change and has participated actively in an era of fruitful social change.

It is a small provincial newspaper of six pages and 2,500 daily circulation, but it has spoken with a strong, independent voice. In its early days its founder had to flee for his life to a mountain village where he continued to publish with rudimentary equipment and clandestine distribution methods. Various governmental, economic and legal sanctions have been taken against it. In 1960 the government closed it.

Despite these conditions and a community 75 per cent illiterate, the Yeni Adana has pursued a bold, independent editorial viewpoint. It has not hesitated to expose wrongdoing by government officials in its local communities. It has sought to acquaint its urban readers with conditions in the poor and remote villages surrounding them, as well as reporting local, national and foreign news.

The Yeni Adana has been a significant factor in the development and education of its community and an inspiration in the struggle for free expression and a fuller life.

It takes a responsible newspaper to wholly inform responsible citizens.

Wisconsin Congressmen Plan Trips to Trouble Spots, Home

WASHINGTON — Fox River Valley area House members have joined a majority of their congressional colleagues in evacuating Capitol Hill to take to the political sawdust trail.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, (R., Green Bay), left today for Green Bay and other points in the Eighth District, where he will spend two weeks in a "fact-finding" tour of principal counties to determine what, if any, problems have developed during the past months with regard to operation of federal programs and other matters.

He will return to the district after attending a state conference of legislators in Puerto Rico.

After touring communities in five counties in the Third Congressional district, Rep. Vernon W. Thomson, (R., Richland Center), will go to Japan and India, the Philippines and Thailand. The former Wisconsin governor was appointed by House Speaker John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) as a member of the Foreign Affairs Sub-Committee on the Far East and the Pacific to participate in interparliamentary conferences in Japan and India. The group will take this opportunity to visit other trouble spots in the far east.

Laird To Seek Funds
Rep. Melvin R. Laird (R., Marshfield), will be busy on the West Coast, in New England and in some parts of the midwest in organizing the Congressional Boosters' Club. This club, the Republican Counterpart of the Democrat's President's Club, calls for membership dues of $1,000 to help build up the war chest for Republican candidates for the House next year.

The Wisconsin legislator, who is also chairman of the Republican Conference, organizes luncheons in major cities, and he, and Republican floor leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and other former vice president Richard M. Nixon meet with prominent Republicans in the various cities to enlist their support in the Boosters' Club. Club membership at present is estimated at 450.

Rep. John A. Race (D. Fond du Lac), expects to make a thorough tour of his district, meeting with leaders in all counties.

Knowles Opens 78-Mile Stretch Of I-94 System

JOHNSON CREEK (AP) — Gov. Warren Knowles Wednesday officially dedicated the 78-mile stretch of Interstate Highway 94 that links Milwaukee and Madison, Wisconsin's two largest cities.

About 450 persons gathered to watch the governor snip a ribbon that symbolized the opening of the road, although the last unfinished section, a three and one-half mile piece in Jefferson County, will not be finished until work crews put finishing touches on a bridge over the Crawfish River Friday afternoon.

The opening removed for all time the designation of State Trunk Highway 30, which was constructed in the 1940s and planned at that time as a four-lane highway. But the four lanes were realized only with the coming of the interstate system, in which the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost.

Knowles said Wisconsin now has completed 304 of the 450 miles of interstate highway in the state.

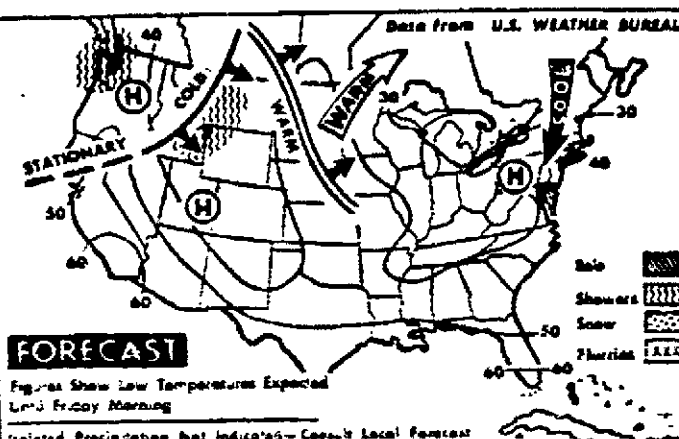

Both Knowles and Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey took the opportunity today to put in a plug for highway bonding in Wisconsin. Both pointed out that the highway would not have been finished now had it not been for Milwaukee County's willingness to borrow money to build its freeway system and, consequently, allow the state to put highway money on other projects.

17 Students to End Accountant Course At Fox Valley Center

The concluding session in a special class for students studying for the certified public accountant's certificate will be held Saturday at the University of Wisconsin-Center.

Seventeen students will complete the course, which began in July and reviewed accounting practice, accounting theory and auditing in 17 three-hour sessions.

A review course may be offered again next summer and fall, according to Prof. Irving K. Christiansen, coordinator of the program at the Fox Valley Center. Christiansen pointed out that a state law will require that applicants taking the C.P.A. examination for the first time on or after July 1, 1968, will be required to have a degree in accounting from an institution whose accounting course standards are the same as the University of Wisconsin's.

Pleasant Autumn Weather Prevails Across Country

Pleasant autumn weather prevailed over most of the country today, except in the Northeast where snow fell and in the Northwest where there was some rain.

Two large high pressure areas, in the western Rockies and in the southern Plains, controlled the pleasant weather.

A cold front dominated the snow and rain areas. Up to 3 inches of snow fell in the New Hampshire mountains early Wednesday and 1 inch of snow covered the ground at Caribou, Maine, and at the Air Force base at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Cold winds, showers and snow struck sections from Upper Michigan to New England.

The lowest reading Wednesday was 21 degrees at Craig, Colo., and Elko, Nev. The day's highest mark was 100 degrees at Thermal, Calif.

Up to one-half inch of rain fell across sections of the Pacific Northwest.

Mainly Indonesia, Cambodia Strongly Against Involvement

By TONY ESCODA

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The storm over American military involvement in South Viet Nam isn't blowing just one way in Southeast Asia.

Along with gusts of criticism against the United States, there is a current of "Yankee stay" sentiment.

Wellsprings of support for American policy are Thailand, the Philippines, Malaysia and Laos, whose governments and people feel their future is closely linked with the fate of South Viet Nam.

One Malaysian observer cautions: "If Viet Nam goes Communist for us there may be no tomorrow."

The most strident opposition to U.S. involvement has come from Indonesia and Cambodia which have bonds with Communist China and North Viet Nam.

Sukarno Condemnation — Indonesian President Sukarno has condemned what he calls American "intervention and aggression" in South Viet Nam. It remains to be seen whether the recent crisis in Jakarta, with the solidifying of army power there, will mute Indonesia's anti-U.S. outcry.

Little change, if any, can be expected in the attitude of Cambodia. Its chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, sees China as the eventual victor.

Sihanouk is both scornful and angry toward the United States and what he calls the "pretend government" in Saigon. He broke relations with Washington last May after accusing U.S.-Vietnamese forces of intruding into Cambodian territory where the Viet Cong are said to take refuge.

Singapore Cool — Singapore, Southeast Asia's newest independent state, has taken a somewhat less than warm line toward the American effort in Viet Nam. Its premier, Lee Kuan Yew, is pessimistic about U.S. ability to sweep back the Communist tide. He claims Americans know nothing about Southeast Asia — "that's why they are in a mess."

But in the Philippines, Thailand and Malaysia, official and popular opinion are running in favor of America's presence in South Viet Nam and its air strikes against the Red North.

The Thais, in fact, think the Americans could have moved in a bit earlier.

Thailand's Communist-hating Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman advocates "careful use of armed force" to prevent a Communist takeover in Viet Nam and eventually in all of Southeast Asia.

A long border with Laos has put Thailand close to the Indo-China firing line. The feeling in Bangkok is that if Viet Nam falls, Laos will fall too, and Thailand also.

Get What They Want — Thanat Khoman believes that, faced with American military power, the Communists "are beginning to feel that they cannot get what they want. There is no other way to stop aggression."

Although Thai military leaders say they need all their armed strength to meet threats developing along their own borders, Thailand has pitched in with some active help for the American-Viet Nam effort, including use of airfields.

The Thai air force has trained some 30 South Vietnamese pilots, and promises more of the same. Thai medical and development project teams are operating in South Viet Nam. Similar aid is being supplied by the Philippines whose foreign secretary, Mauro Mendez, is known to feel that no action taken by the United States in Viet Nam could be too strong.

Neither President Diosdado Macapagal nor his chief opponent, Ferdinand Marcos, has made Viet Nam an issue in their campaign for Nov. 9 presidential elections. A reliable private poll recently showed that 76 per cent of the Filipinos cheer for the Americans in Viet Nam, with only a few of the remaining 24 per cent actually in opposition. Malaysia's Prime Minister Abdul Rahman is a vocal supporter of America's policy.

Neutral Stand

Although elements in his government would like to see Malaysia take a more neutral stand — in keeping with the country's efforts to win Afro-Asian friendship — Rahman insists the United States has no alternative but to fight.

"It is clear that the Communists were the aggressors. It is wrong to speak of American intervention," he says.

Rahman notes that Malaysia, while saddled with its own defense problems involving hostile Indonesia, is throwing open military centers to South Vietnamese personnel for training in jungle warfare. He recently welcomed Vietnamese Premier Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky.

The influential Straits Times, which does not hesitate to twit the United States on other matters, has praised President Johnson's Viet Nam decisions.

Neutralist Burma

In neutralist Burma, which shares a frontier with Communist China, there has been criticism of U.S. policy — and also of North Viet Nam's refusal to negotiate a peaceful settlement. Burmese condemnation of "power bloc" competition in Viet Nam cuts two ways.

Laos has not let its official neutralist line get in the way of support for the United States. The government of Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma has become increasingly aware of the role played by North Viet Nam and Communist China in stirring up Laotian civil strife. It's acknowledged that American pressure on the North Vietnamese has slackened the Red war effort in Laos.

The American-equipped Laotian air force raids the Ho Chi Minh trail, the jungle corridor in southern Laos used by the North Vietnamese to funnel men and equipment to South Viet Nam.

The Laotian minister of public works, Ngon Sanankone, sees it in terms of dragons.

"For thousands of years we have had the big dragon and the little dragon, with their big, big appetites, sitting on our frontiers. When the big dragon, China, was too drowsy to nibble at Laos, the little dragon, Viet Nam, was eating away. If more pensive and serious in demeanor than in the past. Physically, Castro appears healthy and putting on weight."

Bill Okayed To Hike Pay of County Judges

Construction Problems Take Castro's Time

Cement Shortage Diverts Red Cuban From Fiery Oratory

By ISAAC M. FLORES

HAVANA (AP) — While he still talks of the revolutionary struggle and fighting to the death against invading imperialists, Fidel Castro recently has seemed to be preoccupied with problems of housing, roads and schools.

Cuba has to build 1,200,000 dwellings by 1975, the prime minister has said.

A big obstacle is lack of cement.

To build that many houses, Castro says, more than two million tons of cement would be needed each year, "and we don't have it and cannot produce that much until 1970."

Cuban scientists and technical experts are seeking ways to build without using so much concrete. Methods of building walls and ceilings with other materials — such as clay and a mixture of gypsum and mud, are under investigation.

Pay in Dollars — "If we want to import cement there is no one to sell it because other countries have large requirements and we would have to pay for it in dollars," Castro has said.

Castro says that a projected increase in agricultural production will mean nothing if fruits, vegetables and other products cannot be transported. He calls for 60,000 miles of farm roads, and has estimated that 500 or 600 pieces of roadbuilding equipment must be made available soon for the repair and construction of such roads.

No figures have been made public on the amount of school construction planned, but Castro has often complained that more schoolrooms are necessary.

Castro often appears to be more pensive and serious in demeanor than in the past. Physically, Castro appears healthy and putting on weight.

MADISON (AP) — A Senate-passed bill to grant county judges a $4,000 salary increase was approved by the Assembly Wednesday after an adopted amendment settled a heated dispute.

Lawmakers voted 28-10 for the bill and sent it back to the Senate after adopting the crucial amendment on a voice vote.

The amendment deleted sitting judges from the pay raise.

Under the bill, county judges who take office after January 1, 1966, would receive the pay boost and sitting judges would have to be reelected to get the increase. The current pay standard for county judges is $13,500, but many of them receive higher salaries.

Assemblyman Earl Mc Essy, a Fond du Lac Republican who fought hard for the increase for sitting judges, receded from his position and asked that the proposal be returned to the Judiciary Committee.

Fond du Lac County Judge Hazen W. Mc Essy is the Assemblyman's brother.

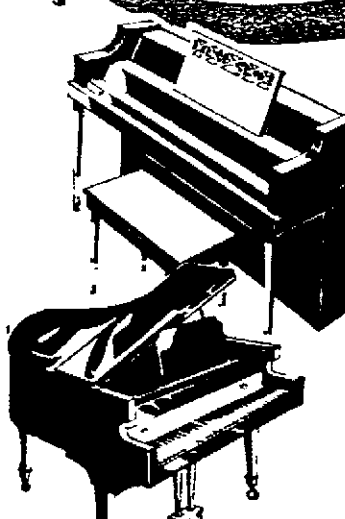

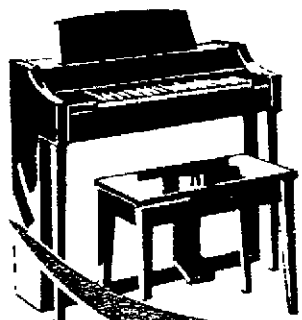

Democratic Majority Leader Frank Nikolay of Abbotsford, who claimed he was "double crossed" by the amendment giving the raise to sitting judges, authored the change which deleted them from the pay boost.

$54,733 Raised in State for Kennedy Memorial Fund Drive

MADISON (AP) — The state chairman of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Fund drive, Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, reported Wednesday that Wisconsin has raised $54,733 of its $250,000 goal. Contributions came from 14,000 state residents.

Lucey said the drive may have been hurt by recent publicity that enough money had been raised to build the library. Lucey said that while construction funds have been provided, money is still needed to endow the institute.

Children (of all ages) take to it like ghosts to the night. In- stead of bonfires, parties abound with spooks as guests of honor. Be tricky and hang the atmosphere of your don't forget those hidden treats Halloween party in a like man- to be strung inside.

Send invitations in the form of witches, ghosts or black cats. cut out from cardboard. Use your most shaky, witchcraft-like penmanship. Remember, this is an invitation to come to a happy haunting ground.

Set Spooky Mood Decorations make the party and set the mood for a rollicking good time. Make witches and skeletons and spooky scarecrows... black cats and weird faces. With a bit of ingenuity plus a few extraneous things around the house, they're easy to make. Gather egg cartons, round cereal box tops, spool of thread, some poster paint, cardboard, paste and string, don your witch's cap and stir up a brew of party fun.

Here's how you make a skeleton: Use only the bottom of the egg carton and cut out the bottom of each egg section for a see-through skeleton effect. Stand the egg carton on end, and in the top of each egg section punch a hole. In each section string a life saver and pull the string or thread through the punched hole. Secure the thread in back of the egg section with cellophane tape. For a taller skeleton use two or three egg carton trays.

To make the witch, you leave the top (lid) on the egg carton and do not cut out the bottom of the egg sections. Paint the inside of carton a gay color. Decorate the lid which will be her body when closed, with witch-type pieces of cloth or pants. String the life savers in each section of the tray as you did when making the skeleton.

you need to make them are some fruit (apples and grape-fruit are ideal and always in season), pipe cleaners in orange and black, of course, and life savers — assorted apple, pear, pink grapefruit and black-rasp- berry flavored ones go with the fresh fruit theme.

String the candies on the pipe cleaners and stick the ends of the pipe cleaners in the fruit to make eyes, noses, mouths, ears — even colorful ringlets or hats atop the head.

To make a witch, cut out a pointed hat from cardboard and paint it black. Put it on a grape-fruit stuck with a life-savers pipe-cleaner face. Make stringy hair with pipe cleaners stuck under the hat. It's a simple idea and the materials are simple, but you can make a whole fam- ily of hobgoblin faces... just uncork your imagination.

No one will build a bonfire to chase away the spooks you've made. To the contrary, such spooks are a hit with both party hosts and guests. They're fun to make and fun to enjoy.

One last word to the wise: witches brewing party fun: Be most cunning about where you place your Halloween handi- work — put it where it'll do the most damage surprise-wise. Then to top off the mysterious atmosphere, use only candle- light, and few candles at that, or shroud the lights in lavender paper... and abracadabra, with all your witchery, you've created a happy haunting ground.

Table Favors Party favors, too, can live up your Halloween decorations. All

For Unusual Party Favors make bewitching faces like these by sticking pipe cleaners strung with candies on fruit.

Airplane Industry Develops Canopy For Baby Bassinets

Manufacturers of an airplane windshield that warms up to melt ice and remove fog have discovered that their heated windshield makes an ideal cover for hospital baby bassinets. It sounds far out, but anything that keeps babies snug and safe is certainly in the truck. The windshield fits on top of the bassinet like a canopy, and automatically adjusts itself to the baby's needs.

A sensor, taped to the child's abdomen, connects to an electronic controller which provides radiant heat. The control has a fixed range from 92 to 102°F. If the baby's temperature drops below 92°F a red light goes on to attract the nurse's attention. If it goes above 102°F, the warning is even firmer—the heat automatically turns off, an overhead light flashes and a signal sounds to attract attention.

And guess what? Each windshield costs only $820. (The makers are working on that little detail.)

Thick Paint Best for Old Shingles

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Before winter arrives, I'm planning to paint my roof except shingles. They are getting along in years, and I believe paint will help check any possible decay and resulting leaks. Is there any particular method?

A: First give the shingles a

Next, a thinned coat of primer

Secretary, Husband Hurt by Wife's Accusations

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a wretched, miserable woman who let my imagination run wild. I accused my husband of things that were not true, put him through hell and insisted that he fire his secretary. I shamed him before his friends, his family and the people he works with.

I have always had trouble with my nerves. This past year was my worst. I let myself lose control. Whenever my husband came home from work, I would accuse him of having an affair with his secretary. Finally I gave him a divorce and he is now married.

My husband was hurt by my accusations. He was dismissed her that very week and has not mentioned a word about it since I know now he did not do it.

because he couldn't bear to see the children. Three months have passed and I realize I was mistaken. I want to go to the woman and apologize and ask her to come back. My husband says I've come enough and to leave things alone.

My conscience is killing me.

Sheinwold Careful Discarding Can Pay Off

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Perhaps the chief problem in the hand shown today is in the bidding. The easiest contract is three notrump played from the South position, but this is not easy to bid.

Opening lead — C-4. South would be happy to bid notrump if North suggested it. In such a bid as two hearts instead of three diamonds. Still, North has no way of knowing that notrump is better than diamonds. North's singleton in clubs and weakness in spades are hardly assets at notrump. Fortunately for South, careful play enabled him to make five diamonds. The key play came at the second trick, when West led a low club. South had to discard a spade from dummy, resisting the temptation to discard a heart.

Declarer then drew trumps and led a low heart toward dummy. If West took the ace of hearts, South would later get a trick with the queen of hearts and reach dummy with a trump to discard the queen of spades on the king of hearts.

Seeing the danger of taking the ace of hearts, West played the nine to force out dummy's king. South thereupon got to his hand with a trump, cashed the king of clubs to discard a heart from dummy and then led the queen of hearts to force West into the lead.

If West returned a spade, South would get a free finesse. If West returned a club or a heart, dummy would ruff and South would discard the queen of spades.

South would lose his game if he discarded a heart at the second trick. If South then led hearts, West would take the ace of hearts and get out safely with another heart. West would eventually get the setting trick with the king of spades.

2-Year-Old's Acts Caused by Jealousy Over New Sister

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: We have four children, 12, 5, 2, and the youngest is now 6 months old. Our problem is the 2-year-old. My husband and I can't control him at all. I remember the two given in to his tears, so I don't see what he hopes to gain by acting this way Mrs. S.M.

He's probably crying because he's desperately lonely and jealous. His despair probably started when your pregnancy made your lap disappear and you mistakenly stopped snuggling him because of that. Remember, he can't forgive you for deserting him, even if you find that necessary. He only cares about what happens to him. That's why mothers must make special arrangements to prove to their children that they love them and want to cuddle with them even if they can't hold them on their laps.

Ask your husband to care for the baby so you can have some extra time in the evenings to hold your 2-year-old and read to him or play quiet games with him. During the day, try to give him a snuggle whenever he asks for one, even if you must put the baby down for a few minutes to put your arms around your toddler.

Don't try to get him to "love" his sister or even pay attention to her. Ask him not to touch her and tell him you bet he must hate her sometimes when he thinks she's interfering with his having fun with you. Then remind him that he still has plenty of fun with you anyhow, so he doesn't need to try to get rid of her.

By taking for granted that his actions reveal his feelings and then by eliminating the pressures that cause him to feel these ways, you can help him regain his earlier trust of you. You're wise to realize that your older children didn't face competition for your mothering at such an early age and so didn't show such extreme reactions: it probably will be easy for you to get your household running smoothly in a few weeks once you begin to prove to your 2-year-old that he hasn't been replaced by the baby.

For a copy of her pamphlet, "How to Prevent Jealousy and Fighting," send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Eve Jones, care of The Post-Crescent, Appleton, Wis. 54910.

older ones were demanding and bothers at his age, but they were nothing like this. And I realize that he had to give up being held in my lap and things like that when he was too young to understand why, but we have tried to show him we love him and he has everything you can imagine. But he won't play with his toys. He just throws them away and sits and cries and cries. When he holds the baby's hand, he grits his teeth and pinches her, so we have to take him away from her. He won't take a nap and he won't play in the yard alone. He keeps up with this behavior even though we have never spoiled him or

Introducing the new milk for kids only. (It's loaded with Vitamin C)

New Fairmont Mighty C Milk is for kids only. No adults allowed.

How come? Because new Mighty C contains all the Vitamin C kids need to go on and grow on. In fact, just one glassful of Mighty C provides enough Vitamin C to supply a kid's daily requirement.

(This is important because kids need Vitamin C fresh every day. It's the one vitamin that can't be stored up for future use.)

Fairmont Mighty C contains lots of other good things for kids, too. Twenty per cent more protein than regular milk, for instance. Plus Vitamin A and Vitamin D. Plus niacin and calcium. Plus iodine and riboflavin. Plus a great taste.

Be sure to make new Fairmont Mighty C the milk for your kids from now on. You can get it at your favorite store right now. Better bring the kids with you, though. It's just possible that no adult will be allowed to purchase Mighty C unless accompanied by a child.

Johnson Has Long Neglected Stating Policy

Critics of U. S. Foreign Action Take Advantage of Void

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Missing for months has been a detailed address to the nation — and thus to the world — by President Johnson on the aims and actions of American foreign policy.

He has made such explanations in the past, particularly on this country's role in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, when the United States was initiating or stepping up action in those places.

This was especially true last spring when he considered it necessary to send 22,000 troops into the Dominican Republic.

But tension finally dwindled there. American action in Viet Nam although greatly increased had lost its novelty, and more and more of the President's time was taken up with getting his programs through Congress.

Quiet for Months

And for months now he has not attempted a lengthy, detailed, and carefully reasoned explanation to the world. Thus he left a vacuum and the critics of American foreign policy stepped into it.

The criticism has come not only from abroad but from American school campuses and not only from Republicans in Congress but, much more vehemently, from some of Johnson's own Democrats there.

In particular one Democrat, Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, attacked American policy in the Dominican Republic, and another, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, has been a thorn to Johnson on Viet Nam.

Occasional Assaults

The House Republican leadership has raised questions on and off but never with the same head-on assaults of Fulbright and Morse.

And protests on college campuses, even though only a minority of students was involved, have reached the point of parades and demonstrations. All this is ammunition for American critics abroad.

Two nights ago the need for a single, careful, authoritative American voice — meaning the President's — to discuss American foreign policy was illustrated by the CBS television show, "Town Meeting of the World."

Satellite Relay

Through a satellite relay students in London, Belgrade, Paris and Mexico City were able to appear on television to question former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall.

It was an unsatisfactory performance all around and, on the part of the students, a hostile one. Amid sneers and apparent contempt the students quizzed the three distinguished Americans about this country's policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Some of them were arrogant, some talked too much, and many of their questions, because of their poor English or transmission difficulties, were not clear.

Angered by Attitude

The three Americans — although Marshall said little and seemed angered by the attitude of the questioners — were sometimes too long, rambling or plitudinous.

And they certainly weren't always on the beam even though the questions themselves were part of a now familiar pattern of criticism of American policy.

This was hardly the way in which American Foreign policy can be explained or understood and absorbed at home or abroad. The program made it clear that the need for such explanation can be filled by no one as well as Johnson.

Not Expected Soon

Yet, because of the need for some peace and quiet to recover from his recent operation, Johnson is not likely to take the airways soon.

In the years ahead Johnson probably will have to take time out for a number of such worldwide explanations for the criticism now, although mounting, is not basically new. It just takes new forms.

Johnson himself recognized the repetitiousness of it when he said earlier this year:

"I am the most denounced man in the world. All the Communist nations have got a regular program on me that runs 24 hours a day. Some of the non-Communist nations just kind of practice on me."

Jingo Sees Some Good Points About TV Series

Rates Several Comedies as Refreshing, But Sees Lack of Cultural Material

potential, the debits far outnumber the credits. But there are strong points. Unfortunately, Jingo turns this prime time spots and do not second of a six-part analysis of "The State of Television" to reach the mass audience.

In the avalanche of comedy shows this year (about one-third of the total schedule), several must rate as refreshing, if not original. Included are such shows as "Get Smart," "The Wackiest Ship in the Army," "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and, occasionally, "Bewitched." Others, such as "Gomer Pyle" and "The Smothers Brothers," have their moments but are not consistent.

Cultural Format

The aforementioned good thing to say include "The Bell Telephone Hour" and "The Hallmark Hall of Fame," but they appear only spottily.

Of the drama shows, perhaps just four stand out as well-done, and two of those are destined for extinction ("Slattery's People" and "Trials of O'Brien.") The other two good drama shows are popular — "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." and "Bob Hope Presents" — and "U.N.C.L.E." often appears as more of a comedy than a drama.

Many Movies

One of the industry's savers of quality is the feature length movie. Four nights each week, the three networks offer films with the first time on TV. scribes her as an "aging radar screen," and when Fred Mac produced shows available, but often even they are of inferior quality.

The day-time scheduling is almost without high points. About all that stands out are a couple of quiz shows with intriguing formats and two discussion series, "The Young Set" and "Mike Douglas," both on ABC.

These shows are often interesting but in the case of "Young Set," the moderator, Phyllis Kirk, has the tendency to nip in the bud any intelligent debate of issues.

Refreshing Late Shows

Most of the time, the best shows television has to offer are on late at night. In particular, "The Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson on Channel 5 and "The Merv Griffin Show," a syndicated series carried on Channel 11. Name personalities appear regularly and both shows have a wide-open format that is quite refreshing.

The first two installments have attempted to very briefly outline strengths and weaknesses of series on television. The third article will deal with the subject, "The Good and Bad of Local TV."

After a brief look in the last column at what's wrong with TV series, Jingo turns this second of a six-part analysis of "The State of Television" to reach the mass audience.

Daniel Boone Tells Story Of Aaron Burr

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — In "The Aaron Burr Story," Daniel Boone takes some liberties with historical fact and turns out a dandy adventure yarn. Burr (Leif Erickson), charming, gentlemanly, literate, comes to Boonesborough and tries to convince Daniel (Fess Parker) to be his guide on a "pleasure trip" through dangerous Indian territory to the Cumberland Gap. Daniel, not believing Burr's story, refuses, but impressionable young Jericho (Robert Logan), yearning for money and an education, accepts. Then Boone learns that Burr has been branded a traitor by the government, and also that an Army is waiting at his destination. (Color)

7-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — It appears Gilligan's Island is sinking, just as the women decide the living area needs beautifying. Before you can say Lady Bird, the men agree to keep the news from the women at all costs. But when the girls eventually learn their dread fate, they come up with the solution: build a raft. (Color)

The aforementioned good thing to say include "The Bell Telephone Hour" and "The Hallmark Hall of Fame," but they appear only spottily.

Of the drama shows, perhaps just four stand out as well-done, and two of those are destined for extinction ("Slattery's People" and "Trials of O'Brien.") The other two good drama shows are popular — "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." and "Bob Hope Presents" — and "U.N.C.L.E." often appears as more of a comedy than a drama.

The day-time scheduling is almost without high points. About all that stands out are a couple of quiz shows with intriguing formats and two discussion series, "The Young Set" and "Mike Douglas," both on ABC.

These shows are often interesting but in the case of "Young Set," the moderator, Phyllis Kirk, has the tendency to nip in the bud any intelligent debate of issues.

Refreshing Late Shows

Most of the time, the best shows television has to offer are on late at night. In particular, "The Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson on Channel 5 and "The Merv Griffin Show," a syndicated series carried on Channel 11. Name personalities appear regularly and both shows have a wide-open format that is quite refreshing.

The first two installments have attempted to very briefly outline strengths and weaknesses of series on television. The third article will deal with the subject, "The Good and Bad of Local TV."

After a brief look in the last column at what's wrong with TV series, Jingo turns this second of a six-part analysis of "The State of Television" to reach the mass audience.

In the avalanche of comedy shows this year (about one-third of the total schedule), several must rate as refreshing, if not original. Included are such shows as "Get Smart," "The Wackiest Ship in the Army," "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and, occasionally, "Bewitched." Others, such as "Gomer Pyle" and "The Smothers Brothers," have their moments but are not consistent.

Explosion of Homes Blamed on Gas Leak

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The pair of explosions Sept. 7 which shattered two homes and injured 43 persons, many of them spectators who gathered after the first blast, were blamed officially by City Engineer Herbert McCullough Tuesday on gas leaking from a broken main.

He said the rupture was caused by shifting soil around the main which belonged to the Milwaukee Gas Light Co. Chapel.

Purdue's Griese Leads Big Ten In Total Offense

Holds 2-Yard Edge Over MSU's Judy; Jones Top Rusher

CHICAGO (AP)—Like coach Duffy Daugherty of tap-ranked Michigan State says, winning is better than passing in football.

Quarterback Bob Griese of Purdue, spilled 14-10 by rallying MSU last Saturday. Today reigned as the Big Ten's top passer and, of his tossing yardage alone, moved in front as the conference's total offense leader.

League statistics credited Griese with 57 completions on 106 flips for 616 yards in three conference games.

The Boilermaker sharpshooter despite loss of 27 rushing yards, wrestled the total offense lead from MSU's Steve Judy by the slim margin of 589 to 587 yards.

Second Best

Judy is the league's second best passer with a 34-for-66 completion record and 489 yards.

Daugherty this week said he preferred using the forward pass only as part of a running game.

With fullback Jim Grabowski of Illinois prancing in non-loop play against Duke, halfback Clint Jones of Michigan State matched the Illini back's pace, setting total of 355 yards. Jones also is top scorer with 32 points on 5 TD's and a two-point conversion catch.

However, Jones has played four games compared with Grabowski's three. Jones has carried 75 times, three more than Grabowski. Top rushing average is 6.0 per try by Minnesota's Dave Colburn on 29 carries.

Other departmental leaders:

Receiving — Jim Finley, Purdue, 21 for 235 yards, and Bob Haadrick, Purdue, 21 for 226.

Punting — Jon Eickstead, Indiana, 10 for 40.6 average.

Kickoff returns — Al Randall, Iowa, 8 for 23.1 average.

Tom Barrington, Ohio State, 6 for 36.7.

Punt returns — Dave Colburn, Minnesota, 8 for 6.4 average.

Brothertown Proximity Is Cited

Glen C. Miller, farm director of the Chicago White Sox Baseball Club, signed a player development contract in a meeting with the executive committee of the board of directors of the Fox Cities Foxes here Thursday.

Miller, a Kaukauna native, met with Foxes' president Bob Rahn, general manager Ed Holtz, director Joe Schouten and treasurer John Wissman.

The Foxes' affiliation with the Baltimore Orioles reached its conclusion recently. The Orioles decided to operate a club (Miami) in the Florida State League. Fox Cities officials immediately began seeking to obtain sponsorship by a major league club for the 1966 campaign.

Miller, in an interview today, said, "I'm most happy we reached an agreement. This is a good baseball area with excellent facilities for the sport. The Foxes board of directors will also be an asset to us."

The personable Chisox official also added that the proximity of the boys camp at Brothertown, on the East shore of Lake Winnebago, was also one of the influencing factors in negotiations with the Fox Cities club. Previously, the Chisox backed the Clinton Baseball Club, also of the Midwest League.

"We certainly look forward to many happy and successful seasons with the White Sox organization," said Foxes' president Bob Rahn.

Meanwhile, the White Sox announced Wednesday that they would launch a $100,000 program to provide their six minor league affiliates with managerial and coaching help.

White Sox owner Arthur C. Allyn said experienced and intensified coaching was needed to combat "deterioration of the economics of the minor leagues."

The program, headed by Miller, will provide:

Indianapolis of the Class AAA Pacific Coast League with a manager, two coaches and batting practice pitchers.

One Class AA club, Lynchburg of the Southern League, produced 1.168 yards rushing for a 5.0 average and 12 touchdowns.

Packer Fullback Admits Injury Has Hurt Play, Isn't Healed Yet

By RUDI SCHIFFER Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Jim Taylor, off to his worst start since becoming a National Football League regular, says he isn't alarmed and his slump is nothing that two sound ankles couldn't cure.

The Green Bay Packer fullback, whose record includes an unprecedented five straight 1,000 yard seasons, has only scored one touchdown this season while carrying the ball 72 times for 224 yards and a 3.1 average.

Last year the former Louisiana State University star produced 1,168 yards rushing for a 5.0 average and 12 touchdowns.

Bragan Finally Gets Cheers

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Manager Bobby Bragan of the Milwaukee Braves, the target of boos by Milwaukee fans throughout the 1965 baseball season, finally got some cheers Wednesday.

He was a guest at an appreciation luncheon in the city he called home for the past 17 years.

The speakers, while lauding Bragan for his contribution to baseball, civic and religious life, also had praise for the Dallas-Fort Worth area as a future location for big league baseball.

Millionaire Lamar Hunt, one of the speakers, said he had tried to move the franchise to Texas last season.

Player Fires 11-Under Par 62 in 'Aussie'

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Gay Player of South Africa shot a sizzling 11-under-par 62 and clipped four strokes off the Kooyonga course record in the first round of the Australian Open Golf Championship today.

Player, the U.S. Open champion, fashioned a nine-under-par 28 on the outgoing nine.

Michigan's 0-3 Mark Not Valid Gauge of Power

Wolverines Lead Badgers in Many Categories

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin football Coach Milt Bruhn said Wednesday Michigan is stronger than its 0-3 Big Ten record indicated. The statistics bear him out.

The Wolverines, who meet Wisconsin Saturday at Ann Arbor, have outgained the opposition both in rushing and passing, despite a dismal record.

The Wolverines, who have lost two of their last conference games by a total of three points, will be seeking their first victory over the Badgers since 1950. The two teams have met three times since then and Wisconsin has won each time.

Fullback Gale Bucciarelli, who has missed two games because of a charley horse, was listed as definitely out of Saturday's contest at Ann Arbor.

Give Up Little

Wisconsin scout Paul Shaw called Michigan, "The best team I've ever seen to have lost four in a row." Shaw said the Wolverines consistently outgain their opponents and give up very little themselves.

Neither team is among the conference statistical leaders except in one category. The Badgers have the lowest per play yard with 2.9 yards.

The Badgers have produced 15.7 points per conference game while Michigan has averaged 11.7, third worst in the Big Ten. Wisconsin has held the opposition to 13.3 points per game and the Wolverines have allowed 18.3 points.

On the other hand the Wolverines have averaged 19.7 first downs a game, far superior to Wisconsin's mark of 12.7, which is the lowest output in the conference.

The Wolverines have an impressive net yards mark of 288.2 compared with Wisconsin's 205.3, again a low for the league.

The opposition has posted a net yardage mark of 199.7 yards against the Badgers while averaging 296.3 against Michigan.

In individual statistics Wisconsin's quarterback Chuck Burt is the third-ranked passer with 30 completions in 62 attempts for 314 yards and an average gain of 5.1 yards. Michigan's

Twins Collect $6,634.36

Dodger Series Shares Exceed $10,000

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy Koufax, Maury Wills and all other full-time Los Angeles Dodgers pocketed $10,297.43 for winning the 1965 World Series and the Minnesota Twins collected $6,634.36 for each losing share.

Although the total gate receipts of $2,975,041.60 set a record, the winning share was only the fourth highest since the American and National Leagues decided on a post-season championship playoff back in 1903.

The record for the most money earned by a winning player was set in 1963 when each Dodger received $12,794 in Los Angeles' four-game sweep over the New York Yankees. The 72,000 capacity at Yankee Stadium helped account for that.

In announcing the financial figures Wednesday, Commissioner Ford Frick pointed out that each of the World Series participants divided their spoils in 35 shares and also dished out several cash awards.

The Twins' losing figure also was well below the record of $7,874 earned by each Yankee in 1963.

Came Out Richer

Both the Dodgers and Twins, however, came out much richer than the participants in the 1964 World Series, when the winning St. Louis Cards got $8,622.19 each and the losing Yankees received $5,309.29 apiece.

Five teams in each league shared in the total players' pool: the Chicago White Sox' full share for second place in the American League came to $1,873.52 as compared to the San Francisco Giants' $1,656.31. The Giants finished second in the National League.

Pittsburgh's Pirates got $1,245.91 each and Baltimore's Orioles $1,183.07 for finishing third. Fourth place full share money amounted to $627.87 for each member of the Cincinnati Reds and $618.51 for each Detroit Tiger.

The Milwaukee Braves received $263.06 and the Cleveland Indians $240.99 for finishing fifth.

First place teams divided 70 per cent of the players' pot. (players share only in the first four games), 15 per cent went to the second place teams, 10 per cent to the third place teams and 5 per cent to the fourth place teams. The fifth place finishers received 2 per cent.

The official attendance figures for the seven games was 364,326, somewhat below the record of 420,784 who attended the 1959 World Series between the Dodgers and Chicago White Sox. The Dodgers' home park that year was the 92,000-seat Coliseum. Dodger Stadium seats 55,000.

Swelled Attendance

Frick pointed out that the 1965 crowds swelled the all-time World Series attendance to 15,051,990. He also said that the federal, state and city admission taxes totaled $260,806 in 1965.

That figure amounted to more than the commissioner's share to the San Francisco Giants' $1,656.31. The Dodgers and Twins club management and the National and American Leagues each received $410,793.29 from the receipts.

Both World Series clubs showed generosity. The Dodgers share of $1,237.54 from the gave Don LeJohn and Al Ferlita a two-thirds share of $7,373.07 each although they spent less than half the season with the Giants in mid-July.

Braves Meet Press, Radio In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — About 150 newsmen from five states turned out Wednesday to welcome the Atlanta Braves to the South.

Ten members of the Braves were on hand to shake hands, make radio and television recordings, and talk to sports writers, here from Georgia, North and South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee.

Players at the press and radio luncheon included Eddie Mauer, Dave Thews, Hank Aaron, Denis Poursley were also given full shares. Mike de la Hoz, Billy O'Dell, Gene Olivo and Bob Sadowski.

Aaron said he did not plan to move here this year because he still had a home and a job in groundkeepers. Milwaukee, which has been the home of the Braves, were voted $87.68 each. Cornhuskers Lead Nation In Total Yards

No. 3 Team Tops List in Offense, Rushing, Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Nebraska's Cornhuskers, the nation's third-ranked college football team, show some basic reasons for their high rating in the latest NCAA team statistics.

The Cornhuskers are No. 1 in total offense, rushing and scoring.

In over-all offense, they have averaged 415.7 yards a game in winning six in a row. 17.9 yards a game more than pass-happy Tulsa, the runner-up.

Nebraska has a 269-yard rushing average, for a 18.7 edge on Missouri, and has scored 36.8 points a game to 35.4 for second-place Princeton.

Catching Up

Tulsa, shooting for its fourth straight passing title, still trails Texas Western in that category but is catching up.

Texas Western, with Billy Stevens as its chief gunner, has averaged 370.6 yards with 100 completions in 219 tries. Bill Anderson is top passer for Tulsa, which has hit on 163 of 284 and a 319.8-yard average.

West Virginia took a big plunge. The Mountaineers racked up 178 points in winning their first four games but have scored only six in two straight losses. They fell from first to fifth in total offense and from second to seventh in scoring.

Oiler Veteran George Blanda Earns AP Back of Week Honors in AFL

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — That George Blanda is a tough guy. He just refuses to go. Houston fans have been yelling for young Don Trull and booing the 37-year-old Blanda so the coaches benched the veteran last week. But not for long.

Trull started Sunday but the Oilers trailed Kansas City 14-0 in the first half. They sent the old man in to start the second half.

In the space of four minutes and 24 seconds, Blanda threw three touchdown passes of 64, 49 and 17 yards, added a fourth TD at the end of the period and made it five in the last quarter. That was enough to make Blanda the Associated Press' choice as Offensive Player of the Week in the American Football League but it wasn't enough for Blanda. Trailing 36-5 with one minute and 20 seconds to go, Blanda completed four passes to set up a 15-yard field goal by Jack Spikes with 17 seconds to go that won the game.

Charley Ferguson came to the rescue of the Buffalo Bills by catching four passes for 36 yards and scoring one touchdown against Denver. It was a fine recovery for the split end who had dropped two passes; that were almost certain TDs against San Diego two weeks ago.

Part of Family

"Ferguson certainly became part of the family," commented Coach Lou Saban of the Bills, who has been hurting for receivers since Elbert Dubenion and Ernie Bennet were injured. The Superior (0-5) will be seeking addition of Bo Robertson, who's first victory of the season caught three for 35, was a help at Stevens Point (2-2).

But Ferguson nabbed the big one. Fred Biletnikoff, the Oakland rookie who reportedly was paid a $150,000 bonus, finally got a chance to play at the flanker spot vacated by Robertson and caught seven passes for 118 yards. During the exhibition season, the former Florida State star, was nervous and dropped too many passes.

"I think breaking in late in the season (seventh game) really helped me," said Biletnikoff. "I felt real loose, but I should have burned that guy (defensive back Don Webb) a couple more times."

Paul Lowe, San Diego half-back who continues to lead the league in rushing, picked up 110 yards on 16 carries against the New York Jets Saturday night and scored twice.

Stout Seeks Fifth Victory At Oshkosh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Surprising Stout, the Wisconsin State University Conference leader, will seek its fifth straight league victory at Oshkosh Saturday while runnerup Whitewater fights for survival against Eau Claire.

Stout (4-0) had its troubles last time out against winless Superior and had to wait until the fourth period before scoring a touchdown and a field goal for a 10-0 victory.

Whitewater's Warhawks will be looking for victory number four to go with one tie. A major conference clash is set for Nov. 6 when the Warhawks Norbert last Saturday, 27-8.

In the only other afternoon game River Falls (2-1-2) will visit Platteville (0-4).

Third place La Crosse (3-1-1) will step out of conference who has been hurting for receivers since Elbert Dubenion and Ernie Bennet were injured. The Superior (0-5) will be seeking addition of Bo Robertson, who's first victory of the season caught three for 35, was a help at Stevens Point (2-2).

Third place La Crosse (3-1-1) will step out of conference who has been hurting for receivers since Elbert Dubenion and Ernie Bennet were injured. The Superior (0-5) will be seeking addition of Bo Robertson, who's first victory of the season caught three for 35, was a help at Stevens Point (2-2).

Yastrzemski, Mays Capture Slugging Titles

Aaron Second in NL, With Chicago's Williams Third

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielders Willie Mays of San Francisco and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston won the 1965 major league slugging championships, the final average revealed today.

Mays had a .645 mark in leading the National League for the fifth time. The past season, he collected 360 total bases in 558 times at bat. Among his 177 hits were 21 doubles, 3 triples and 52 home runs, the latter a major league high.

The Giants' star also paced the NL in 1954, 1955, 1957 and 1964. The 1965 campaign was the 12th straight in which Mays has compiled at least 300 total bases. This extended his own league record. He also lifted his career slugging average four points to .593, another NL mark.

Yastrzemski topped the American League with .536 on 265 total bases in 494 at bats. He had 45 doubles, 3 triples and 20 homers among 154 hits. Yastrzemski is the first Boston player to lead the AL in slugging since Ted Williams in 1957.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee was second in the National League with a .560 average. He was followed by Billy Williams, Chicago, .552, and Frank Robinson, Cincinnati, .540. The Giants' Willie McCovey was fifth with a .539 mark.

Tony Conigliaro, Yastrzemski's teammate, and Detroit's Norm Cash wound up in a second place tie in the American League. Each slugged .512. Leon Wagner of Cleveland was fourth with .495.

Slugging averages are computed by adding the total bases accumulated on all hits and dividing the figure by the number of official times at bat.

Name Lopat Executive Vice President of A's

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "for Baltimore."

Ed Lopat, who expressed relief when fired as field manager by the Kansas City Athletics in 1964 but hung on with them in various odd jobs, was appointed executive vice president of the American League baseball club Wednesday.

Lopat, 47, once a left-handed pitching ace for the New York Yankees, will be second in command only to A's owner Charles O. Finley.

"Everyone in the organization comes under my supervision," Lopat told a news conference. He said that includes Hank Peters, who had been the club's general manager, and Alvin Dark, former manager of the San Francisco Giants.

Park, Peters to Assist

Dark and Peters will be his administrative assistants, Lopat said. When Dark was hired in August it was announced that he would be answerable only to Finley.

"Dark will work out of the front office as a liaison man and the crown in San Juan, P.R., trouble shooter," Lopat explained. "He will do the same thing as Harry Craft does announced Wednesday."

Lightweight Champ To Defend Crown

PANAMA (AP) — Ismael Laguna, the world lightweight boxing champion from Panama, will make his first defense of the crown in San Juan, P.R., on Nov. 13 against Carlos Orlandez, the former champion, it was announced Wednesday.

Big Ten Still Plagued By Injuries; Illini Lose Star Halfback, Pinder

CHICAGO (AP)—Injuries continue to plague major midwestern football teams as the season No. 1 spot in the country nears the halfway mark with Saturday's skirmishing.

Illinois' hope for an upset of powerful Purdue was hit when Cyril Pinder, star sophomore halfback, wrenched his knee in a baseball gym class Wednesday. He slipped on wet grass while running.

Pinder leads the Illini in scoring, producing his fourth and fifth touchdowns last Saturday in the 28-14 Illini conquest of Duke. One of Pinder's TD runs came on a 30-yard sprint.

Notre Dame, preparing for Navy's invasion, had to move Don Gmitter to offensive left end when starter Tom Talaga turned up with a sprained ankle.

Northwestern had a star halfback, Ron Rector, come off the injured list, but for punting duty only in Saturday's tough battle at Michigan State. Rector suffered a shoulder injury two weeks ago.

Two-Hour Drill

At other Big Ten camps—

Purdue—Coach Jack Mollenkopf said the same Boilermaker team nipped 14-10 last Saturday by rallying Michigan State, will start at Illinois. A two-hour of offensive and defensive drill focused attention on Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski.

Indiana—No. 2 left halfback Reggie Woods returned to full duty, but starter John Ginter was still out of action and apparently unavailable for Saturday's game against Iowa. To fill the void, Coach John Pont moved right half Ray Terry to Ginter's slot.

Michigan State—The Spartans worked on pass defense with the Soviet news agency Tass emphasis on covering Northwestern's key receiver, end Cas Banaszek. MSU is at full strength for the Homecoming program announced in at East Lansing Saturday when March 1962.

1965 Season Dedicated to Dead Coaches

Tennessee Players Wear Black Crosses On Side of Helmets

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The thousands of football fans who see the Tennessee Volunteers in action during the next six weeks will long remember this team because it wore a black cross—a silent eulogy for three dead coaches.

Wingback Hal Wantland, the team captain, called a meeting of the Vol seniors last week and they decided to dedicate the 1965 season to coaches Bill Majors, Bob Jones and Charlie Rash.

The three coaches were fatally injured in a car-train collision one week ago today.

Rash, who died Friday, was buried in his home town of Shelby, Mo., Sunday. Several hundred persons including Head Coach Doug Dickey, Athletic Director Bob Woodruff and others of the football world attended.

On Saturday, when Tennessee shook off a slow start to beat Houston, 17-8, fans at the game gave $9,500 to a scholarship fund for the seven young children of the three coaches.

The fund now has reached about $25,000 and "was far beyond our expectations," said Jim McDonald, UT assistant athletic director.

In addition, the Knoxville Journal and News-Sentinel have collected about $16,000 in pledges and similar funds have been started in Memphis, Columbia, Mo., and at Baylor University where Jones played college football.

At the meeting of seniors, called by Wantland, it was decided that each member of the Vol squad would wear a black cross on the side of his white headgear for the remainder of the season. The crosses were there against Houston.

LA's Koufax Too Straight-Dealing To be Republican

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a former mayor of Minneapolis and one-time senator from Minnesota, was asked Wednesday what happened to this state's baseball club, the Minnesota Twins, in the World Series last month.

Humphrey, knowing all too well that the Twins had lost to the Los Angeles Dodgers, quipped: "This is the first time I had my black suit off."

But the Democratic political veteran managed to see a bright side in the defeat.

The Dodgers' star left-hander, Sandy Koufax, whose pitching helped topple the Twins, "must be a Democrat," Humphrey said, "because no man could so far, I'm ready to carry the pitch that hard and that straight and that fast without being one."

Ex-QB Gilmer Tries Hand at Passing in Lions' Practice

DETROIT (AP)—A quarter-day against the Los Angeles Rams. The Lions are in a three-game losing streak.

Trying his own hand, Gilmer completed five of nine passes in the nonscrimmage practice Wednesday and had one intercepted.

At 39, Gilmer showed himself still nimble and accurate. The former Alabama ace has been in football all his adult life. He went in to pro football right after graduation in the late 1940s and has been here since as player and coach.

He said he was glad for the chance and also deprecated the Lions' losing streak.

"We just need to correct little intricacies that have messed us up. We're not too far gone to do that," Izo said.

Wrightstown JV Team Concludes Perfect Season

The Wrightstown High School junior varsity football team has concluded a perfect season—unbeaten, untied, unscathed—with a 4-0 record.

The Tiger JVs, composed of freshmen and sophomores, beat Brillon, Reedsville, Hilbert and Denmark—scoring a total of 95 points. Denmark had a 5-0 record prior to meeting Wrightstown.

The top scorers for the Floyd Marks-coached team were Tom Ribarchek and Frank Gomez, with five touchdowns each. Gomez is a Cuban refugee.

Twins' Griffith Looking For 'Real Big' Trade

Yankees Listed As Most Likely To be Involved

BY GENE LAHAMMER Associated Press Writer MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.

(AP)—Minnesota Twins' President Calvin Griffith—who stood pat with his sixth place 1964 team and won the 1965 American League pennant—is working on a "real big" trade.

Griffith said Wednesday that he's working on a deal with the New York Yankees which would bring the Twins a utility infielder and an outfielder in return for three Twins players.

Griffith also said he has had holes with his old-time authority.

"This is the most serious injury I've had in pro football," said Taylor, "and it's not completely healed. It hasn't changed my running style but I do have to favor the leg."

"My running has been below par," he admitted, "and when you're a running back in this league you need everything working and going for you. You have to be able to cut, drive and avoid those tacklers. For this you need complete mobility."

The 30-year-old Taylor, who is the Packers' all-time leading rusher and third ranked in the NFL behind Jimmy Brown and Joe Perry, is now in his eighth season. He predicts that he'll play at least four more seasons.

While the injury obviously hasn't been helping him any he refuses to let it become a crutch. "There's only one way for me to go and that's up. No one wants to get ready more than I do," he said.

"Our defense has been carrying us but our offense will pick up. I hope it improves about 500 per cent Sunday against the Bears. We'll need it."

Home Accident

Although he considers his current injury the worst he's had as a packer, he suffered a home accident that kept him out of six games in 1959. He came back from that injury to gain 1,101 yards in 1960.

And Taylor is confident he'll be ready for resurgent Chicago.

Which has won three in a row since losing to the Packers. "I feel good," Taylor said Wednesday, "the best I've felt since '59. I'm ready to carry the ball 20-25 times.

If they think I'm washed up, forget it."

Tulsa Has Top Two Receivers

Charlie Gogolak Second in Scoring With 61 Points

NEW YORK (AP)—Twilley & Sweeney might be in monopoly trouble if the laws of business extended to college football.

Tulsa's pass-catching stars rank 1-2 in receiving, the first two men from the same major college team ever held those positions as late as mid-season, according to NCAA figures released today.

Howard Twilley, with several records already secured and a couple more within reach of his capable hands, is far ahead with 73 catches for 1,014 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Twilley's 200 catches and 2,578 yards are among his collegiate records. One more scoring pass would give him 23 for a career record, and 165 more yards would enable him to break his own single season mark of 1,178.

Roy Shivers of Utah State is the nation's leading scorer with 73 points on 13 touchdowns, while Princeton kicking sensation Charlie Gogolak is second with 14 field goals and 19 extra points for 61.

Other leaders are Larry Wachholtz of Nebraska in punt returns, with 420 yards; Bob Grim of Oregon State in kickoff returns, with 441 yards; and Joe Carazo of Wake Forest in interceptions, with six.

4. Rambler American, outperforms every car in its class.

Here are 8 built-in quality features, many not even found in Cadillac:

1. Every car has a two-bearing system, instead of one. You get two chances to stop. Only Cadillac has all the other U.S. built passenger cars, has standard dual hydraulic brakes.
2. Coil spring seats in every car, like the famous Cadillac. Cadillac thinks they're better, too, but they only put them in their most expensive models.
3. A Ceramic-Armored without system. Longest lasting on any U.S. car.
4. Ashtrays that roll on ball bearings. Not even Cadillac goes that far.
5. Surprise power. Take our Rambler Classic, for example. Even its wipers. Six is bigger than Ford's, Chevrolet's, Buick's and Corvair's. Want more? Our Rambler American outperforms every standard body-style engine car in its class. (That includes Corvair, Valiant, Falcon, even Mustang).
6. Optional bucket seats (standard on Regal, Rebel, and Bld) that recline on both sides. Who else gives you that kind of comfort today?
7. An optional 16 and 180 automatic transmission that works in a sporty mode. You can shift, you can set it on automatic, 8. Dual-Die castings. We don't just throw it on. We don't just put it on the roof. See why we're ready to call the Big 3's hand! Come see the facts and think it over about your next new car. Our Giant-Killers are giving some very friendly deals.

In the White Collar Zoo

Character Revealed In Quitting Time Ritual

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Quitting time is as much a daily ritual in the work he intends to take the American business office as coming to work in the morning. The way an employee departs shows his nature just as clearly as does the manner in which he arrives.

If you check the howling herd in your own white collar zoo, you might note the following familiar characters at the hour of closing.

Methodical Milton — Somebody stole a paper clip over night from Milton 15 years ago and he is determined never to let it happen again. He puts everything that is on top his desk inside his desk, checks each drawer carefully to see that it is locked, then locks his file cabinet, pads his typewriter and hides the cushion of his swivel chair in his locker.

Funny Freddie — Fun Loving Freddy — As soon as Milton is gone, the office boy who has keys to everything opens Milton's desk, puts a well-chewed apple core in the top drawer, then relocks it. Milton will worry for a month how the apple got there.

Hangover Harry — He has spent the day hiding out in the washroom. At 5:20, still a bit foggy, he wheels in and calls out, "Anybody ready for lunch?" I found a great place — the house buys every third martini.

Suburbanite Sam — In the summer this prisoner of the outer spaces sneaks out at 5 p.m. so he can spend more time whacking away at his crabgrass before dusk. In winter he starts wrapping up in heavy clothing at 5 p.m. so he can make the long voyage home without freezing.

Madcap Molly — The office Cleopatra never gets much done after 4 o'clock. From then on she tours the place, sitting on the desk of one junior executive after another, swinging her shapely legs and indulging in gay banter. Her big hope: One of them will weaken and take her to dinner and a movie.

Light-Fingered Leo — The office wolf has everything tied up at 5:15. Then he stations himself near the door, hoping he can get in one more punch as the girls from the stenographic pool pass by.

Wheelhorse Wilbur — The in the field of civil rights leg- quitting hour of 5:30 is only an islation.

Attorney General Rules State Water Committee Cannot Set Standards

MADISON (AP) — The State Committee on Water Pollution does not have authority to establish water quality standards for surface waters within Wisconsin, Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette held Tuesday.

LaFollette told committee director Theodore F. Wisniewski the agency was limited by the Legislature to the adoption of rules for the installation, use and operation of pollution controlling systems.

But the attorney general added in his opinion that the "best interests" of the state would be served if the committee and the State Board of Health were empowered to set the quality standards contemplated.

Name Milwaukee Man To Rights Commission

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles has named Emil Santacrose of Milwaukee to the Governor's Commission on Human Rights.

He replaces Marshall Colston of Madison, who resigned in protest to what he called the governor's "lack of leadership" in the field of civil rights legislation.

Brazil Calm After Change In Government

President Gets Broad Dictatorial Power Through Move

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil was reported calm today and most political leaders were silent after President Humberto Castello Branco dealt himself dictatorial powers.

Some 200 students demonstrated briefly in Rio de Janeiro, but no other unrest was reported after Castello Branco issued the sweeping new law Wednesday.

"We need tranquility for the nation's economic development," he told a television audience.

Faces Defeat
With the measure facing defeat, the military government slammed the lid down.

The decree included these provisions:

—The abolition of all existing political parties;

—Presidential power to declare a state of siege for up to 180 days;

—Federal power to intervene in the states;

—Expansion of the Supreme Court from 11 to 16 judges;

—Presidential power to oust federal and local legislators and authority to suspend political rights of any citizen for 10 years.

Direct Election

The act also abolished direct election of the president by the people. Instead he will be chosen by Congress before next Oct. 3, and Castello Branco cannot succeed himself.

Justice Minister Juracy Magalhães repeated a government promise that state governors who were elected earlier this month would be allowed to assume office.

The Brazilian Labor party of leftist ex-President Joao Goulart, who was ousted by a civil-military movement last year, said Castello Branco's decree "mortally assaulted what remains of republican institutions."

Congo Leaders Dispute Future Of Mercenaries

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The Congo's civilian and military leaders today disputed the future of the hired white soldiers who crushed the rebellion in the north Congo.

President Joseph Kasavubu said early this week that the mercenaries would be sent home.

On his return Wednesday night from the African summit conference in Accra, he said only "those people hired in the framework of technical assistance agreements with friendly powers" would be kept.

Most of the mercenaries coming from South Africa and Rhodesia, and the Congo has no technical assistance pacts with those governments. According to Kasavubu's statement, these men apparently would be sent home.

Castro Calls For End Of Small-Boat Exodus

P 1 572 CASTRO CALLS—313H

ban Prime Minister Fidel Castro ordered a halt at midnight

Cubans set sail for Florida in the face of bad weather.

Coast Guard spokesman said.

Waves 10 feet high were reported in the Florida Straits which separate Cuba from the United States.

to a U.S.-Cuban agreement to fly 3,000 to 4,000 refugees a month to the United States.

Gustavo Hidalgo, captain of a

23-foot boat, arrived here today and said: "The Castro officials wanted to send out all boats that

Radioed Guard

"We radioed the Coast Guard to take off our women, children

ferred to a Coast Guard vessel

men stayed on board.

"It took us 28 hours to make the 90-mile return trip," Hidalgo explained. "We made the voyage to Cuba in seven hours in good weather."

Hidalgo lives in Miami, Fla.

The U.S.-Cuban agreement to

be announced Friday in Washington and Havana.

The announcement cutting off

after a meeting between Castro and Emil Stadelhofer, the Swiss ambassador to Havana. The

Swiss represent U.S. interests in Cuba.

From Airport

Informed sources said the

relatives in the United States to be flown from Varadero Airport, 85 miles east of Havana.

American planes — probably

sources added.

The flights are expected to

agreement is announced.

Cuba and the United States reportedly will each issue a list of Cubans who have "immedi-

States. Persons whose names appear on both lists will be al-

one list will be subject to negotiations.

The term "immediate relative" was taken to include sons,

brothers and sisters.

Earlier Statement

The agreement made no mention of an earlier statement by

Castro that youths aged 17 to 26

would not be allowed to leave without completing their military service.

Among the refugees arriving

Wednesday was 6-year-old Isa de Varona of Havana.

"Fidel is a wonderful person," she said. "He has saved

Cuba from imperialism."

"My teacher told me," she explained.

Tennessee Solon Speaks At Award Day

OSHKOSH — Tennessee's Third District Congressman William E. Brock called for precinct politics to promote the ideals of the Republican Party at the first annual Sixth District GOP award dinner at the Pioneer Hotel Wednesday evening.

The self-proclaimed "unapologetic conservative" defined conservatism as a "total belief in people and the individual" and urged Republicans to quit worrying about national problems and work on local problems.

"We must build strong communities or we'll never have a government in Washington run by the people," he said. "Every American is a politician because we have the right of self-government." And the meat of politics lies next door where your friends are, he said.

Complex Society
The "essence of Republicanism and democracy" is giving dignity to man as a human being, respecting the individual, he said.

Brock stated the central problem of today is a society "so complex that the individual tends to lose his identity." "A person can't feel individualistic in an automated society," he added.

He called for Republicans to exercise their responsibility and to "practice belief in the individual man."

The young GOP congressman noted "we can't have a political system without a free economic system. There are no human rights without property rights. They are intertwined and inseparable," he said.

Presents Awards
State GOP chairman Ody J. Fish presented district awards to Allie Kultgen, Port Washington; Lucius P. Chase, Sheboygan; Harold Huibregtse, Sheboygan, and Mrs. Peter Kohler, Kohler.

Sixth District Republican
Chairman Bernard C. Ziegler awarded 14 county Republicans for service to the party through the years. The recipients included William Gresenz and Lorraine Jarrett, Winnebago County; Merlin G. Zahn and Delores Pauly, Calumet County; Clayner Van Pelt and Jean Schwieso, Fond du Lac County; Victor Yahr and Margaret Friday, Green Lake County; Allie N. Kultgen and Vee Clasmann, Ozaukee County; Lucius P. Chase and Bertha Voigt, Sheboygan County; and Mike Kratzer and W. Cayle Claus, Washington County.

Tigers Face Plymouth in E-W Loop Showdown

CHILTON — The moment of "truth" has come to the Chilton Tigers as they prepare to meet the second place Panthers of Plymouth here Friday night in the game that could possibly decide Eastern Wisconsin conference championship.

Plymouth and New Holstein both had identical 6-1-0 records. Chilton rates second in the league in scoring with 166 while Plymouth has 150, third best in the conference. Plymouth, however, is first in defense, allowing just 18 points in seven league games while the Tigers have given up 46 in the same number of contests.

Clintonville Sets Official Day For Halloween

CLINTONVILLE — Mayor Frank Sinkewicz has issued a "Halloween Proclamation" setting Saturday as the official day for the observance of Halloween in the city. Residents have been encouraged to have their porch lights on during that evening only, and to provide treats and contribute to UNICEF on Saturday.

It had been a past practice in the city to observe Halloween on two evenings except for last year when the mayor issued a similar proclamation.

Sinkewicz was encouraged again this year by civic groups, individuals, and the police department to issue a proclamation limiting "Trick or Treat" activity and UNICEF solicitation to one evening.

Clintonville School Library Will Have Evening Hours

CLINTONVILLE — Recommendations for using the senior high school library in the evening were accepted by the board of education at its meeting Tuesday night at the office of Supt. R. O. Benson.

Recommendations include a three-month trial period of opening the school library from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays for student study.

It was recommended that the services of a college graduate, with either teaching experience or library science training, be hired to supervise the library, and that the supervision be under the school library's supervisor.

Adequate records showing number of students using the library are to be kept to enable the board to make an evaluation at the end of the trial period.

Adopt Rules

Rules for the use of the library and building facilities are to be set by the school administration, and entrance to the building is at the east front.

A proposal to keep the school library open during evening hours was made at the Oct. 12 meeting of the board of education. At that time it was referred to the school administration for study.

0-3 Mark Not Valid Gauge of Michigan Power, Figures Say

Wolverines Lead Badgers in Most Departments in Big Ten

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin listed as definitely out of Saturday's contest at Ann Arbor. Coach Milt Bruhn said Wednesday Michigan is stronger than its 0-3 Big Ten record indicated. The statistics bear him out.

The Wolverines, who meet Wisconsin Saturday at Ann Arbor, have outgained the opposition both in rushing and passing, despite a dismal record.

The Wolverines, who have lost two of their last conference games by a total of three points, will be seeking their first victory over the Badgers since 1950. The two teams have met three times since then and Wisconsin has won each time.

Fullback Gale Bucciarelli, who has missed two games because of a charley horse, was

Purdue's Griesse Leads Big Ten In Total Offense

Holds 2-Yard Edge Over MSU's Juddy; Jones Top Rusher

CHICAGO (AP)—Like coach Duffy Daugherty of tap-ranked Michigan State says, winning is better than passing in football.

Quarterback Bob Griesse of Purdue, spilled 14-10 by rallying MSU last Saturday, today reigned as the Big Ten's top passer and, of his tossing yardage alone, moved in front as the conference's total offense leader.

League statistics credited Griesse with 57 completions on 106 flips for 616 yards in three conference games.

Second Best

Juddy is the league's second best passer with a 34-for-66 completion record and 489 yards.

Daugherty this week said he preferred using the forward pass only as part of a running game.

With fullback Jim Grabowski decided on a post-season championship game, Illinois prancing in non-league play against Duke, halfback Clint Jones of Michigan State matched the Illini back's pace, setting total of 355 yards. Jones also is top scorer with 32 points on 5 TD's and a two-point conversion catch.

However, Jones has played four games compared with Grabowski's three. Jones has carried 75 times, three more than Grabowski. Top rushing average is 6.0 per try by Minnesota's Dave Colburn on 29 carries.

Other Leaders

Receiving — Jim Finley, Purdue, 21 for 235 yards, and Bob Haerick, Purdue, 21 for 226 yards.

Punting — Jon Eickstead, Indiana, 10 for 40.6 average.

Kickoff returns — Al Randolph, Iowa, 8 for 231 average, and Tom Barrington, Ohio State, 6 for 36.7.

Punt returns — Dave Colburn, Minnesota, 8 for 6.4 average.

Interceptions — Dan Hilsabeck, Iowa; Rick Volk, Michigan; and Bob Grossman, Wisconsin, each 3 for 19 yards.

A relaxed Xavier High School football team, with its fifth straight Fox Valley Conference championship already in the bag, concludes another illustrious season at 8 p.m. Friday on Goodland Field against Menasha St. Mary.

The Goodland Field attraction will serve as the homecoming game for the Hawks of Coach "Torchy" Clark.

Xavier carries a 7-game success string into the fray, while the Zephyrs, coached by Clarence (Sonny) Lotzer, are 3-3 in FVCC play. Overall, the Hawks are 7-1 with the only loss coming in the season opener, 18-14, to Milwaukee Jordan. St. Mary is 4-4 overall.

15 Seniors Bow Out

For Xavier, 15 seniors will bid farewell to the high school gridiron. These include: ends Mike Heideman and John Grosser, tackle Mike Van Lieshout, guards Mike Gregorius, Mark Feavel, Jack Herb and Steve Collins, center Dennis Mannebach, halfbacks Larry Van Dyke, Colin Smith and Bob Tennesen, fullbacks Tom Schreiter, and Jim Zwicker and southpaw quarterback Paul Rechner.

Another senior tackle, Tim Wenzel, suffered a broken ankle in the Pennings-Xavier game and will not see action.

Other games around the FVCC include Green Bay Premontre at De Pere Abbot Pannings Friday night and Marquette Central at Little Chute St. John and Oshkosh Lourdes at Fond du Lac Springs Saturday.

As for the Xavier-St. Mary battle, some interesting individual contests appear to loom on the horizon. Zephyr quarterback Mike Heroux and Rechner, of Xavier, are the leading passers in the circuit.

Taylor Running on One Leg, But Sees Hope in Bear Game

By RUDI SCHIFFER
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Jim Taylor, off to his worst start since becoming a National Football League regular, says he isn't alarmed and his slump is nothing that two sound ankles couldn't cure.

The Green Bay Packer fullback, whose record includes an unprecedented five straight 1,000 yard seasons, has only scored one touchdown this season while carrying the ball 72 times for 224 yards and a 3.1 average.

Last year the former Louisiana State University star produced 1,168 yards rushing for a 5.0 average and 12 touchdowns.

"The difference is one leg," said the bull-necked 215-pound fullback. "I'm still as fast as I ever was but I haven't had 100 per cent drive off my right leg."

Since 1960, Taylor's first full season, a strong ground game has been the Packers' hallmark, but with Taylor below par the rushing attack has been virtually punchless. The Packers are undefeated by virtue of a strong defense and the passing of Bart Starr.

Taylor injured his ankle against St. Louis in Green Bay's last preseason game. He played little against Pittsburgh in the season's opener, sat out the next game against Baltimore. He has seen extensive action since then but has not been hitting the

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) —

Manager Bobby Bragan of the Milwaukee Braves, the target of boos by Milwaukee fans throughout the 1965 baseball season, finally got some cheers Wednesday.

He was a guest at an appreciation luncheon in the city he has called home for the past 17 years.

The speakers, while lauding Bragan for his contribution to baseball, civic and religious life, also had praise for the Dallas-Fort Worth area as a future location for big league baseball.

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) —

Gary Player of South Africa shot a sizzling 11-under-par 62 and clipped four strokes off the Kooeyonga course record in his first round of the Australian Open Golf Championship today.

Player, the U.S. Open champion, fashioned a nine-under-par 28 on the outgoing nine.

Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, was ready to tee off when Player's nine-hole total was posted. "I have never seen anything like it," Nicklaus exclaimed.

Player carded a 34 for the last nine holes to wind up with the

Sox Announce $100,000 Program To Help Minors

Glen Miller, farm director of the Chicago White Sox baseball club, met with Fox Cities Foxes' officials this morning to negotiate terms for a major league affiliation for the Appleton-based club.

Miller, a Kaukauna native, met with Foxes' president Bob Rahn, general manager Ed Holtz, director Joe Schouten and treasurer John Wissman.

The Foxes' affiliation with the Baltimore Orioles was ended recently. The Orioles decided to operate a club (Miami) in the Florida State League. Fox Cities officials immediately began seeking to obtain sponsorship by a major league club for the 1966 campaign.

Meanwhile, the White Sox announced Wednesday that they would launch a $100,000 program to provide their six minor league affiliates with managerial and coaching help.

White Sox owner Arthur C. Allyn said experienced and intensified coaching was needed to combat "deterioration of the economics of the minor leagues."

The program, headed by Miller, will provide:

- Indianapolis of the Class AAA Pacific Coast League with a manager, two coaches and batting practice pitchers.

- One Class AA club, Lynchburg of the Southern League, and three Class A clubs, with a manager, coach and batting practice pitchers.

And the Sarasota Sox of the Sarasota Rookie League with no Kooeyonga course record in the less than one coach for each first round of the Australian eight men.

The Class A clubs include Appleton, Wis., of the Midwest League; Sarasota of the Florida State League; and a team to replace Portsmouth of the Carolina League.

Fans Interested In Cards' Trade

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — St. Louisans showed their interest in the trade that sent Bill White, Dick Groat and Bob Uecker of the Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday.

Twins Collect $6,634.36

Dodger Series Shares Exceed $10,000

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy Koufax, Maury Wills and all other full-time Los Angeles Dodgers pocketed $10,297.43 for winning the 1965 World Series and the Minnesota Twins collected $6,634.36 for each losing share.

Although the total gate receipts of $2,975,041.60 set a record, the winning share was only the fourth highest since the American and National Leagues decided on a post-season championship playoff back in 1903.

The record for the most money earned by a winning player was set in 1963 when each Dodger received $12,794 in Los Angeles' four-game sweep over the New York Yankees. The 72,000 capacity at Yankee Stadium helped account for that.

In announcing the financial figures Wednesday, Commissioner Ford Frick pointed out that each of the World Series participants divided their spoils in 35 shares and also dished out several cash awards.

The Twins' losing figure also was well below the record of $7,874.32 earned by each Yankee in 1963.

Came Out Richer

Both the Dodgers and Twins, however, came out much richer than the participants in the 1964 World Series, when the winning St. Louis Cards got $8,622.19 each and the losing Yankees received $5,309.29 apiece.

Five teams in each league shared in the total players' pool, and the Chicago White Sox, still share for second 'place in the American League' came to $1,873.52 as compared to the San Francisco Giants' $1,856.31. The Giants finished second in the National League.

Pittsburgh's Pirates got $1,245.91 each and Baltimore's Orioles $1,183.07 for finishing third. Fourth place full share money amounted to $827.87 for each member of the Cincinnati Reds and $618.51 for each Detroit Tiger.

The Milwaukee Braves received $263.06 and the Cleveland Indians $240.99 for finishing fifth.

First place teams divided 70 per cent of the players' pot (players share only in the first four games), 15 per cent went to the second place teams, 10 per cent to the third place teams, and 5 per cent to the fourth place teams. The fifth place finishers received 2 per cent.

The official attendance figures for the seven games was 364,326, somewhat below the record of 420,784 who attended the 1959 World Series between the Dodgers and Chicago White Sox. The Dodgers' home park that year was the 92,000-seat Coliseum. Dodger Stadium seats 55,000.

Swelled Attendance

Frick pointed out that the 1965 crowds swelled the all-time World Series attendance to 15,054,990. He also said that the federal, state and city admission taxes totaled $260,806 in 1965.

Navigational Improvements

Among the major items of unfinished business before the legislature is a plan to authorize a substantial program of improvements in lake and stream recreational facilities, combined with a more determined program of water problems research.

The legislature has been offered an ingenious method of financing such legislation in a bill that would repeal the provision for the refund of taxes paid on motor fuel used for operating pleasure boats. Curiously enough, the boating clubs and associated interests have backed such a plan enthusiastically during the several years it has been under consideration in the legislature, although it is evident that many of the boat owners of the state would be losing some money through its enactment. The opposition, sometimes not clearly put on the record, comes largely from those persons and interests associated with highway development, because to the extent that boat owners are not now claiming the refunds to which they are entitled, the transfer of the boat fuel tax receipts to the new water recreation improvement fund would slightly reduce highway department income.

We cannot agree that such objections are justified. The Highway Department's claim to motor fuel tax income is based on the assumption that motor fuel taxes are paid for the privilege of using the public highways.

The gasoline used by the man who has a boat to fuel its engine has no relation to his responsibility for highway construction or maintenance. The fact is certified by the existing law allowing him to file claims for the refunding of such boat fuel taxes. Such refund claims as are not filed are in effect windfalls for the highway budget. To use such tax income to create a segregated fund for navigation and related projects is as fair and reasonable as is the idea of reserving the income from taxes paid on automobile and truck fuel for the highway budget.

This state now has well over 300,000 privately owned boats. No one who has observed what has been going on around him in Wisconsin lately can doubt the vital relation of our water recreational opportunities to the total state economy. In hundreds of our smaller communities the provision of more water access, boating law enforcement, the installation of navigation guides and other aids, the construction of small harbors and similar facilities, would be immediately reflected in an expanded tourist business income. Moreover, most of such facilities would be beyond the financial ability of the smaller rural and village governments directly involved. The boat tax segregation plan now before the state senate is a timely and practicable one that should have the earnest attention of every legislator interested in sound growth of the valuable Wisconsin recreational industry.

Vaccine for Mumps Tested

Mumps is one childhood disease for which no vaccine has ever been developed. In fact it has become accepted as a theory that it is better for children to have them at a fairly early age and acquire natural immunity than to run the risk of contracting the disease after puberty when it can have serious complications.

But now a live-virus vaccine that hopefully will give lifetime immunity is being readied for possible testing in children next spring. The vaccine has been tried successfully in guinea pigs and monkeys and has been found to give long-lasting immunity. Whether it will do so in humans isn't known yet, but the results from the tests in animals are encouraging enough to warrant human tests.

Research into a mumps vaccine has been going on in the United States since the 1940's. The latest project was spearheaded by two researchers with the University of Illinois, who reported their findings last week to a meeting of the American Public Health Association in Chicago.

The live mumps viruses are grown in chicken-embryo tissue contained in hens' eggs. They are weakened sufficiently so that they won't cause a case of mumps but still will build up an immunity. The scientists are now preparing their first large batch of the vaccine, which will then be tested by the U.S. Public Health Service for contamination. If it is cleared, tests on selected groups of children may start next spring.

How Long Can the U.N. Keep the Peace?

The United States backed down from a confrontation with the Soviet Union and France over their failure to pay the peace-keeping expenses of some of the United Nations emergency forces authorized by the General Assembly. But, since the threat of withholding the right to vote in the U.N. is not to be used, the problem of collecting money for such operations remains as unsolved as ever.

The Irish minister for external affairs, Frank Aiken, has suggested a way to get around both a Security Council veto of efforts to authorize peace-keeping forces and another long hassle over trying to collect the assessments. Actually his plan is merely a recognition of the way things have been done for the last few years.

The Security Council has twice authorized such peace-keeping forces — in Korea during the boycott of the proceedings by the Soviet delegates, and currently on Cyprus. Mr. Aiken would have the General Assembly reassert "residual" powers for such forces in case of the failure of the Security Council to do so, either through the veto of a permanent member or a majority against it. The resolution would have to be passed in the General Assembly by three-fourths of the members present and those abstaining would be counted as present. Assessments for an authorized operation would be made on the basis of status. The ninety underdeveloped countries would be expected to contribute only 5 per cent; the economically healthy countries which were not permanent members of the Security Council would pay 25 per cent and the permanent members the remaining 70 per cent. But nations which did not agree with the operation and had voted against it would not be assessed.

The United States did not pressure the General Assembly into a vote on withholding voting privileges from those currently in arrears for several reasons. There were arguments that the matter was not worth disrupting the United Nations and that the Soviet Union and France might walk out if the decision should go against them. Even more serious was the possibility—even the probability—that we would be defeated on the matter. And perhaps of more importance but seldom mentioned was the belief among American delegates that the General Assembly was no longer the place to authorize peace-keeping operations. The number of new countries, many of them with self-seeking leaders, has not contributed to a long look at world problems in the General Assembly. Eventually it may but not right now.

Mr. Aiken's proposals would slow down the possibility of General Assembly authorization for doubtful peace-keeping operations. And it would make us immune from responsibility to pay in case we disagreed with a decision. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg warned the assembly that the United States would feel free to withhold United States funds anyway in such a case.

Peace-keeping operations have succeeded in several cases in halting conflicts. But it is too soon to tell whether the peace they keep is remotely permanent or whether the day of reckoning has merely been postponed.

'Why Should Deserters Vote?'

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Oct. 19, 1865.

The Crescent of two weeks ago was very ready to give its opinion of the Attorney General's opinion on the law of Congress disenfranchising deserters and those who ran away from the draft.

It added its own intimations and reflections to Supervisors. Evidently it counted this as sufficient authority for its readers; but dare not trust them to read the "Opinion" of the attorney general for themselves, as is evidenced by their not publishing it.

On the whole, we think the late President, Congress, and the Attorney General is quite as good authority as the Hon. Maj. Judge, Editor Sam Ryan, Esq.

The Crescent is proclaiming the right of all such deserters and draft-dodgers to a vote, and attempts to overawe country supervisors from striking from the registry the names of such by advising indictment and prosecution, and hurling at a term in State Prison. In this connection, the Crescent rejoices "Lincoln is dead, and unlicensed tyranny will no longer be submitted to in Wisconsin."

Union-loving soldiers, who did your duty, do you want to be placed on a par with those traitors? Why they should vote in a country they chose to desert rather than defend?

Indian-Pakistani Deadlock Even More Difficult of Solution Now

BY MAX FREEDMAN

A spokesman for the Administration has quoted the President as saying that the Kashmir dispute had a good result since it proved that the United Nations could act effectively in a crisis. This is an example of looking so hard at the silver lining that one forgets the existence of the dark cloud.

Freedman

At best only an interim judgment is possible on Kashmir. The crisis is still smoldering; passions are up in both India and Pakistan; and there is no sign in either country of a willingness to accept a compromise. The President will soon discover that he is confronted with inflamed prejudices when he begins to deal with this problem. It is therefore very premature to move votes of thanks at this stage, either to the United Nations for its firm stand or to the United States for its wise restraint. A better policy would be to prepare now for the next stage of the crisis.

In practical terms, the problem was transformed when Pakistan, in alliance with China, attacked India. This combination of circumstances, even to moderate and responsible people among India's leaders, seemed to impose a weight of infamy and guilt on Pakistan that nothing could dislodge. The Indian judgment is that Pakistan has no wish to be a good neighbor, that Kashmir is a mere pretext for causing trouble, and that Pakistan's real aim is to weaken and dismember India by urging a policy of secession on its minorities. This conviction may be unjust to Pakistan but if so, her leaders have done singularly little to disprove it. At all events, the President will have no harder task than removing these suspicions from the mind of President Shastri of India.

SIGN OF WEAKNESS

As the Indian government now sees it, Pakistan is demanding in defeat a settlement which she failed to exact on the field of battle. Concessions granted under these terms seem to New Delhi a confession of weakness intolerable to a self-respecting state. They are therefore against all concessions. They regard Kashmir as a permanent part of India, not subject to the auction block of diplomacy, and not ready to be traded off or compromised in return for American economic aid.

At no time since the beginning of the Kashmir dispute has Indian opinion been so hard or unyielding. They are not proud of this new development but they ask the world to understand its origins and its justification. For them the root cause is not India's policy but Pakistan's hostile actions.

One immediate result of this hardening of India's temper is the refusal to see any merit in the plan to give independence to Kashmir. This plan, widely discussed at the United Nations, has strong support in the British Commonwealth of Nations and in the State Department. But it has absolutely none right now in New Delhi, and that is the barrier.

In his recent speech to the St. Louis Council on World Affairs, the greatly respected Indian ambassador to the United States, Mr. B. K. Nehru, made a serious charge against Pakistan that deserves the most careful attention by the White House and the State Department.

ABUSED U.S. AID

He said that "Pakistan has been furnished with over $1500 million worth of military equipment at the expense of the United States taxpayer. These arms were given to them to fight Communist aggression. India was assured by President Eisenhower and those who followed him that these arms would never be used against us. Their possession — and the fact that India did not possess equivalent weapons — led Pakistan to believe that India could be militarily defeated. That they broke their promise to the United States in using these weapons did not of course matter to a country which is not particularly renowned for keeping its word. However the Indian army and the Indian air force, though operating with much less efficient equipment, succeeded in destroying the Pakistan military machine — a fact which the Pakistan government has since then been taking great pains to hide."

Here is a direct charge by Ambassador Nehru that Pakistan abused its American military aid to attack India in collusion with Communist China — the very country against which Pakistan was to stand as a rampart with American arms. It seems to me that it would be much more useful to investigate this charge than it would be to have a spokesman congratulate the White House on its good luck thus far in the Kashmir dispute.

Annual Sessions of State Legislature Walked in Corridors

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — When Wisconsin legislators talk shop nowadays, they discuss with increasing seriousness the idea of abandoning the constitutional rule for biennial legislative sessions and the inauguration of the annual meeting that has become more common in other states in recent times.

The biennial session rule was adopted generations ago when the state was small, political and social problems were fewer and less complex, and the business of reviewing the laws could be accommodated comfortably in a reasonably short sitting at two-year intervals.

Wyngaard

But circumstances have changed radically, as has the situation of the individual politician in the legislature. Once the typical representative was satisfied to come to Madison in January and to stay for regular work weeks until late spring. Then the dominant role in the legislature, as in state politics generally, was held by the farmer. His work at home was reduced during the winter. Travel was less efficient and he was content to remain in Madison during weekends, working at his public job. Today virtually all members of the legislature want to spend long weekends at home on their private affairs.

IN EFFECT

The private concerns of the members, combined with an infinitely more complex and more numerous bundle of problems and proposals put before them in each session, have had the effect of stretching out the biennial sessions. In point of practical fact the legislature in recent times has been meeting annually. The regular adjournment has been replaced with a recess. Each recent session has had fragmented sessions that in total length would probably equal the time spent under an annual meeting rule. The current session, the so-called "1965 session," lasted seven months, earlier this year and now has spent a month at its fall deliberations. It almost surely will spend at least an additional month in Madison next spring and very likely more.

The best academic argument for annual deliberation on legislative matters is the demonstrable fact that the idea of precision in budgetmaking cannot be achieved when the lawmakers in fast-changing times are required to estimate financial needs and appropriation levels for as much as 30 months in advance. The "budget" under such circumstances belies the name. The appropriation bill becomes merely a guess, an approximation fitted to the state treasury's condition at the time.

The situation is illustrated currently in the flow of supplementary appropriation bills now before the lawmakers. Ostensibly the state's expenditures program was enacted in July. But there are dozens of new bills floating around. Some of them will be enacted, involving multi-million dollar sums of spending that only a few months earlier the legislature would not consider.

COST ARGUMENT

Concern about the higher spending that would result from the more prolonged exposure of the legislators to spending pressure group influences has been the principal obstacle to the annual session plan among the more conservative members of the legislature, and especially the older men who have dominated the State Senate for the last dozen years or more.

"When they get two shots at the cookie jar, they are likely to get more than under a biennial legislative pattern," as one seasoned state senator puts it.

Yet to a substantial degree, the fast-changing appropriation demands reflect legitimate needs and the tempo of the times. To cite one illustration: the budget estimates for the state university system were exhaustively reviewed, carefully prepared. But only a few months after the appropriation program was enacted into law, new enrollment projections showed many additional thousands of new students on their way to the campuses. In a state which won't turn them away, the legislature under such circumstances must accept some elasticity in appropriation schedules.

Strictly Personal

Accordion's Place Is Italian Street Cafe

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: When we attack a man as a "radical," we should distinguish between those who are going in the wrong direction and those who are simply going faster than we care to.

Harris

A surprisingly high percentage of writers began their careers as doctors or medical students, which indicates to me a strong affinity between medicine and the arts, and suggests that the practice of medicine must be at least as much an art as a science—a factor forgotten by too many doctors who are preoccupied with techniques.

Anyone who buys a home decoration or accessory as a "conversation piece" must be a "terrible conversationalist." Speaking of that, I have always liked the comment of Bulwer-Lytton that: "The true spirit of conversation consists in building on another man's observation, not overturning it."

Why is it that women in riding clothes look dashing, while men in riding clothes (with few exceptions) look fatuous and affected? Also, it may not be without significance that pre-teen girls are absolutely mad about horses, while boys of the same age are generally cool to them.

Some weeks ago, I wrote a column about words that are invariably misprinted — like "casual" for "causal" — and should have added proper names that don't conform to common usage; for instance, recently I mentioned Verdi's opera, "Otello"—which some enterprising proof reader promptly changed to "Othello." The most discreet, and yet explicit, letter of reference I have heard was a reply a friend of mine made to a company asking for a reference on a former employee: "We have known Mr. X for a long time, and when you come to know him as well as we do, you will think the same of him as we do."

Fanatics are the worst enemies of the causes they espouse the Puritan, for instance, has turned the word "morality" into a bad joke by insisting that many things are "immoral" which are merely objectionable to him—thus emptying this essential word of its proper content.

Except in such specialized locales as Italian street cafes, the accordion is an instrument I could cheerfully do without hearing the rest of my life.

Presumably, when God cast out the Devil, he shrugged his shoulders and excused himself by saying, "I'm only diabolical, after all." Everybody takes the lowest part of his nature and uses it as a justification for betraying the higher part.

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tripod is as well known on the Centre College campus as many of the professors.

The dog's origin unknown, was adopted last year after his leg was broken by an auto. Someone brought him to Dean of Men Max Cannes, who had the leg amputated and a pegleg installed.

Tripod follows students to classes, sits quietly through lectures and shows a preference for Shakespeare. He recently attended a six-week session on the Board of Avon and even showed up for the final exam.

agreed. His teacher, he said, has told him all about the admirable qualities of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The children's mother, Isabel de Varona, shook her head sadly as she listened to them.

"I brought them here so they would not become Communists," she said.

Top Priority

But another of the 100 children who arrived Wednesday, 4-year-old Albertico, munching on an apple, one of a barrelful handed out by wives of servicemen here, announced, "I would rather be in the United States than Cuba."

His dark brown eyes sparkling, Albertico added, "It is fun to be in this country."

Like Mrs. De Varona, Albertico's mother, Milagro Perez Hernandez of Havana, said, "I didn't want him to grow up under communism."

Some who sent their children out of Cuba long ago are taking advantage of the migration to join them.

Free Country

Jose Iglesias Lopez, who sent his son, Jose, to Miami four years ago, declared, "I want him to be an American citizen because this is a free country."

Jose was 14 when he left Cuba.

"Now he is a man," his father said. "He is working as a waiter in a hotel. I can't wait to see him."

Among the 400 to 500 refugees who arrived Wednesday — a record high — was Faustino Casimiro Moya y Moya, of the Isle of Pines, a former tourist haven.

"Only Communists are seen on the black sand beach there now," he reported.

"Cucumber growing has gone to pot," he added.

The Isle of Pines used to provide most of the winter cucumbers eaten in the United States. Americans who grew them have left.

Maybe It Was Japanese Who Beat Columbus

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It may not have been Norsemen or Christopher Columbus who discovered the New World after all, but the Japanese, a University of Pennsylvania archeologist has indicated.

Froelich G. Rainey, director of Penn's Museum, said Wednesday night that excavations in Alaska last summer turned up tiny flint blades dating to 6000 B.C. They appear to be the same type as ones uncovered earlier in the Aleutian Islands and the east coast of Japan, he said.

"This would indicate that the first settlers in this hemisphere migrated by foot from the eastern coast of Asia," he said.

The theory that early Americans came from Asia is not new, but previous theories had them migrating from Siberia, not Japan, and eastern Asia, he said.

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles announced the appointment Wednesday of John Roche of Rio to the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education of Wisconsin Rapids, who resigned.

Roche is a retired farmer who served 30 years on the Columbia County board of Supervisors. He is president of the Federal Land Bank office at Baraboo.

Roche was recommended for appointment by the County College Boards Association. State law provides that the coordinating committee member representing county teachers colleges be a member of the county college board.

perfect liberation, or attain, by their own efforts or through higher help, supreme illumination."

Restless Heart

Other religions also try "to counter the restlessness of the human heart."

The Roman Catholic Church "rejects nothing that is true and holy in these" and therefore exhorts Catholics to enter dialogue and collaboration with non-Christians.

The church esteems Moslems and notes they revere Christ as a prophet and honor Mary.

"Since in the course of centuries not a few quarrels and hostilities have arisen between Christians and Moslems, this sacred synod urges all to forget the past and to work sincerely for mutual understanding."

As the council examines the "mystery of the Church" it recalls the bond "that spiritually ties the people of the new covenant to Abraham's stock. The spiritual patrimony common to Christians and Jews is great: The Old Testament, the Apostles and many early Christian disciples who sprang from the Jewish people.

"True, the Jewish authorities and those who followed their lead pressed for the death of Christ: still, what happened in His Passion cannot be charged against all the Jews, without distinction, then alive, nor against the Jews of today. Although the Church is the new people of God, the Jews should not be presented as rejected or accursed, as if this followed from the holy Scriptures. All should see to it, then, that in cathetical work or in the preaching of the word of God they do not teach anything that does not conform to the truth of the Gospel and the spirit of Christ.

"Furthermore, in her rejection of every persecution against any man, the Church, mindful of the patrimony she shares with the Jews and moved not by political reasons but by the Gospel's spiritual love, decries hatred, persecutions, displays of anti-Semitism, directed against Jews at any time and by anyone.

"Besides, as the Church has always held and holds now, Christ underwent His Passion and death freely, because of the sins of men and out of infinite love, in order that all may reach salvation.

"The Church reproves, as foreign to the mind of Christ, any discrimination against men or harassment of them because of their race, color, condition of life, or religion."

James Roosevelt Sees U.N. Seat For Red China

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, predicts that Red China someday will be admitted to the United Nations.

Roosevelt, 57, U.S. representative to the U.N. Economic and Social Council, spoke Wednesday night at a program sponsored by the Iowa Governor's United Nations Committee. After the talk he answered questions.

Roosevelt, former congressman from California, said it would be a mistake to admit the Chinese Communists until they discontinue aggression but on the other hand, "We recognize that disarmament is impossible unless they are working with you."

Roosevelt said he hopes that a way can be found to bring China in under "proper conditions of dignity."

Walt said. "It means something to the people up North. They've never heard of Marble Mountain."

The big Da Nang base is a springboard for U.S. air attacks against North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong.

In a previous attack a small Viet Cong squad infiltrated the main base at Da Nang July 1, killed one U.S. policeman, destroyed three planes and damaged three others.

On Aug. 5 guerrillas destroyed part of a fuel storage complex near Da Nang.

Predict More

U.S. military strategists maintain that no foolproof defense exists against such infiltration. They have predicted more sabotage raids as the Viet Cong try to show that small guerrilla bands can strike at will and embarrass the superior U.S. forces.

Nearly 25,000 U.S. Marines were in South Viet Nam when the Viet Cong hit Marine facilities in the Da Nang area last July. About 40,000 Marines are in the country now and the defense perimeter around Da Nang has been strengthened with increased patrolling, both day and night.

The latest Viet Cong hit-and-run attack aimed at U.S. air might was the most destructive since he guerrillas shelled Bien Hoa air base, 12 miles northeast of Saigon. In that attack on Aug. 24 they damaged 45 planes and four helicopters with mortar fire.

Air Action

In the air, U.S. planes made their first successful drop of propaganda leaflets on Hanoi, a U.S. spokesman reported. The planes did not fly over the North Vietnamese capital, he said, but unloaded 640,000 leaflets over the populous Red River delta and winds carried them into Hanoi.

The leaflets contained the message that the North Vietnamese government was exchanging rice for guns with Communist China to wage the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam.

Reports from Phu Yen Province, 200 miles north of Saigon, said 383 Viet Cong had been killed in a major Vietnamese assault that began more than two weeks ago.

Heavy Fighting

A spokesman reported heavy fighting in the province and said the largest casualties were inflicted by U.S. air strikes. The spokesman said about 340 other Viet Cong have been killed in the operation, but he added that this figure was not confirmed.

Paratroopers of the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Brigade killed 37 Viet Cong near the city of Qui Nhon in an operation to destroy an enemy sniper pocket. The paratroopers were

Mekong Delta

In the Mekong Delta, 40 Viet Cong penetrated the provincial capital of Bac Lieu, 125 miles southwest of Saigon, and inflicted light casualties in a residential section. The guerrillas withdrew after an hour-long attack.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division swept abandoned enemy positions around the special forces camp at Plei Me and found 37 more Viet Cong bodies. This raised to 201 the number of guerrillas confirmed dead since the camp came under attack 10 days ago.

The spokesman said 115 additional Viet Cong may have been killed 37 Viet Cong near the city of Qui Nhon in an operation

Other new laws will:

Clarify law covering the abandoning of automobiles in lakes and raise the penalty to $200.

Require amber flashing warning lights on tow and service vehicles rather than red lights presently used.

Provide the board of directors of an insurance company special powers to continue operations during a national emergency.

Extend to the whole state the power of the Board of Health to establish sanitary districts where private parties are polluting surface waters.
